Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi!

This might be a good time for all the men to turn to the sports pages and check the week-end baseball scores.

I want to talk to the ladies for a while and answer a few of the questions that I hear most while I am traveling.

A lot of women I meet, even before they ask if I can swim the Strait, ask how I keep my complexion smooth with all that constant immersion in salt water and exposure to the wind and sun.

Believe me, I have given a lot of study to this problem and I have a definite procedure I follow to protect not only my skin but also my eyes and hair.

First of all, before I enter the water for practical swims I cover my face with a thick coating of liquid make-up. This gives me almost perfect protection against water, wind and sun.

Two years ago, when I was in England training for my Channel swim, there were a lot of young boys training with me. Some of them had fair complexions and they suffered terribly until I gave them some of my make-up. They were embarrassed using it but it did the trick for them.

I use lots of water-proof lipstick to keep my lips from cracking and have found that the Hazel Bishop brand is the most effective.

I wear goggles all the time I am in the water but to be doubly certain of full protection for my eyes, I put Murine in them as soon as I come out of the water.

All my swimming requires me to keep my hair cut short. I wash it every two days thoroughly to keep the salt out and fortunately I have quite a bit of natural curl in it.

During my practice swims, I have not been using body grease but when I do it will be composed of Lanolin.

We had a wonderful day Sunday, swimming in Prospect Lake at the home of Jack and Marg Todd. I swam for five and one-half hours and the work-out felt great, especially when we sat down to huge charcoal-broiled steaks for dinner. We kidded the life out of Jack for winning that new boat. Jack and young Andy Kerr came swimming with me and the five and one-half hours seemed to pass in no time. I am feeling stronger every day and am ready to tackle more of that Cadboro Bay water.

Flo's Training Speeds Swim Estimate Game

The game of calculating how long Florence Chadwick will take in the Baco-Times swim to Port Angeles, or how long she will remain in the water, has taken on added zest since Miss Chadwick began her training last week.

Flo has spent periods up to an hour and a half in the cold waters of Cadboro Bay. Sunday she put in more than five hours doing an 11-mile swim in Prospect Lake to lengthen her endurance training.

These factors alone have demonstrated that whether or not she can make the full 18.3-mile grind to Port Angeles, she will certainly cover a good part of the distance, barring accidents. This has raised the sights of people entering the calculating contest. Estimates are running now to the seven and eight-hour marks, with, of course, many people who think she will do the full distance in 12 or 13 hours.

The next coupons for the $1,000 contest appear in Tuesday's and Wednesday's Times.

Traffic Jams? Ontario Mishap Causes a Dandy

TORONTO (CP)—A minor accident Sunday on Highway 400, Ontario's most modern highway, caused a lineup of cars, 65 miles long, said to be the worst traffic jam in the province's history. Provincial police said it took an hour and a half to get traffic moving again.

These factors alone have demonstrated that whether or not she can make the full 18.3-mile grind to Port Angeles, she will certainly cover a good part of the distance, barring accidents. This has raised the sights of people entering the calculating contest. Estimates are running

Foods, Rents Jump Sharply

Living Cost Rise of Sixth-Tenths
Biggest Increase in 2½ Years

OTTAWA (CP)—A sudden, sharp jump in food prices combined with higher rents boosted the consumer price index by three-fifths of a point in May, to 116.1 from 115.5. It was the biggest rise in 30 months.

The increase was due almost entirely to higher prices for meats, coffee, fresh vegetables and fresh and canned fruit, the bureau of statistics reported today. Butter and chicken prices were lower.

Rents also climbed along with such other items as cleaning supplies and furniture. Counting some of these latter increases were lower prices for nylon hosiery, some other clothing items, electrical appliances, cotton sheets and garbage cans. Coal prices made their usual summer seasonal decline.

The consumer price index, yardstick for measuring living costs, is based on 1949 prices, equaling 100. The climb during May was biggest since the advance of four-fifths of a point in October, 1951. The index peak was 118.2 reached in December, 1951.

REVERSED TREND
With the exception of a tiny one-tenth of a point rise in March, the index generally had been declining in the early months of 1954 as weakening food prices cut living costs.

The May climb pushes back the index almost to the October, 1953, level when it stood at 116.2. There were only three big rises in 1953, each of one-half point and just a shade below the May, 1954, rise of three-fifths of a point.

Japanese Floods
Take 28 Lives
TOKYO (AP)—Units of the new Japanese army were pressed into disaster relief duty today as flood waters from torrid rains took at least 28 lives and spread havoc on western Honshu island.

Nationalist police, in announcing the death toll, listed at least 34 other persons as injured and 15 as missing.

United States motorists, alerted to safe and sane driving, cut Independence Day holiday fatalities sharply today and safety experts were hopeful the week-end total would be as much as 100 deaths below pre-holiday estimates.

A United Press survey showed that 406 persons had been killed in all types of accidents since 6 p.m. Friday.

DISASTER OVERTAKES ISLAND CLIMBERS

Rosseau's Mountain Lore Guided Lost Times Newsmen to Safety

BY HUMPHRY DAVY
Ralph Rosseau was a man who loved mountains.

His life was taken by one of the unpredictable and ruthless forces which stalk the lonely, snow-covered peaks of Vancouver Island.

I first met Rosseau two summers ago while climbing Mount Arrowsmith with David Stock, Times reporter; Graham Harris, now of Vancouver, and Ulf Bitterlich of Alberni, who was a member of Saturday's ill-fated expedition.

He was alone building a cabin hewn from trees from the mountain slope. The cabin was situated not far from the timberline and overlooked the Alberni Valley.

Rosseau deeply impressed me. Somehow he seemed to fit in the landscape. He was part of it.

As an alpinist, he ranked among the best in Canada.

We watched him climb along a narrow ledge on the side of a 2,000-foot precipice. The ledge was not more than four inches wide. Yet he walked along it with a sureness of a mountain goat. He climbed swiftly, with determination and without fear.

Rosseau did not climb for self-exultation and he did not belong to the cult of danger.

Rosseau, though a school teacher, disliked the "passive man." He believed it was the duty of men to create, to be active in the field he was best suited for. His field was mountain climbing and he developed it into an art.

On the day we climbed Mount Arrowsmith, David Stock lost his way while returning to Rosseau's cabin. The newspaperman followed a wrong trail, descended a precipice and was stopped from proceeding by a marsh.

His friends wanted to organize a search party immediately, but Rosseau suggested waiting a while.

"Mount Arrowsmith is a big mountain," he said, "and it isn't everyone who can conduct a search safely on a mountain."

Rosseau said he would chop wood at his cabin to attract Stock's attention.

The sound of chopping wood, he explained, can be heard for miles on a mountain, and if Stock was safe he would follow the sound to the cabin. So for three hours the school teacher chopped. The newspaperman heard the sound and was able to find his way back to the cabin.

We left Rosseau that night on Mount Arrowsmith, his favorite mountain and his second home.

I remember him saying as we left: "I love this mountain and it will take me a lifetime to know it all. But if I do, I will know myself."

Helicopter Airlifts Women From Mountain

By DAVE STOCK

Ralph H. Rosseau, 45, principal of Gill Elementary School at Alberni, fell to his death Saturday when an ice ridge he was climbing in the hinterlands of Vancouver Island suddenly crumbled.

He died instantly.

A helicopter from Vancouver was bringing the body out of the rough, mountainous area today.

Rosseau, a skilled and experienced climber, was on the return leg of a trip into Margaret Lake, a small body of water about halfway between the northern tip of Great Central Lake and the southern end of Buttle Lake.

He was accompanied by three others, his wife, Lillian, Miss Alma Currie and Ulf Bitterlich. Miss Currie was injured in the ice fall. Mrs. Rosseau was thrown clear. Bitterlich, who was leading, was on safe ground when the break occurred.

The two women were flown out by helicopter Sunday evening. Miss Currie was being treated for possible cracked ribs and bruises.

Mrs. Rosseau was treated for shock but allowed to go home. "I don't actually know what happened," she told the Times today. "We had been to the lake. We had got in the day before (Friday) and we camped there that night."

Wife's Eyewitness Account
The party planned on returning by way of Drinkwater Valley, Drinkwater Creek flows through this valley, joining Della Lake with Great Central Lake.

To reach the valley, the Rosseau party had to cross Septimus Ridge. It was here disaster befell. The party had just resumed its hike, after stopping for lunch.

"We were just going to cross the ridge to the Della Lake side," Mrs. Rosseau recounted. "We picked what looked like the best route up. It was a place filled with snow.

"As we worked our way up, a big block of ice gave way with three of us on it. It slid 25 or 30 feet and just rolled over."

"I was catapulted onto the ice that was left."

Mr. Rosseau and Miss Currie were carried down with it and landed in a deep crevasse.

Bitterlich, using a rope, lowered himself into the hole. He found Rosseau dead, apparently from a broken neck, and Miss Currie beside him.

Hikes 10 Miles to Get Aid
"Ulf wouldn't let me go down," Mrs. Rosseau said. "I looked over the edge but I couldn't see the others. Ulf said to keep perfectly still because he was afraid other ice might give way."

Having rescued Miss Currie, Bitterlich found a safer place on the mountain ridge where the three spent the night. At daybreak he set off alone to bring help. After hiking 10 miles, he encountered another mountaineer. This man, not identified, carried the message for help to RCMP while Bitterlich returned to the women.

An aircraft spotted the trio Sunday morning and a helicopter of the Okanagan Air Services from the mainland took out the two women Sunday evening.

Bitterlich and a policeman remained in the area Sunday night in order to guide those flying in today to the body.

Mrs. Rosseau, heart-broken by the tragedy, found some comfort in knowing: "That's the way he would have wanted it. He loved the mountains so."

"It had been a happy day. I had been so pleased," she recalled.

Rosseau had planned on another climbing expedition next week-end to Elkhorn Mountain, a 7,200 peak in Strathcona Park.

Ulf Bitterlich, young German immigrant who accompanied Rosseau on ill-fated expedition and hiked out for help. An experienced mountaineer, Bitterlich trained in Austrian Alps.

Imminent Indo-China Battle Seen As French Forces End Retreats

FRENCH, REDS AGREE ON WOUNDED PW SWAP

PARIS (Reuters)—French and Viet Minh rebel representatives agreed on an exchange of wounded and sick prisoners in today's truce talks at Trung Gia, the Indo-China "truce village," according to a joint communique issued tonight. The first exchange was fixed for July 14.

Military sources said an imminent battle was shaping up in the Red River delta halted their withdrawal today and prepared to defend a line running 15 to 20 miles south of Hanoi.

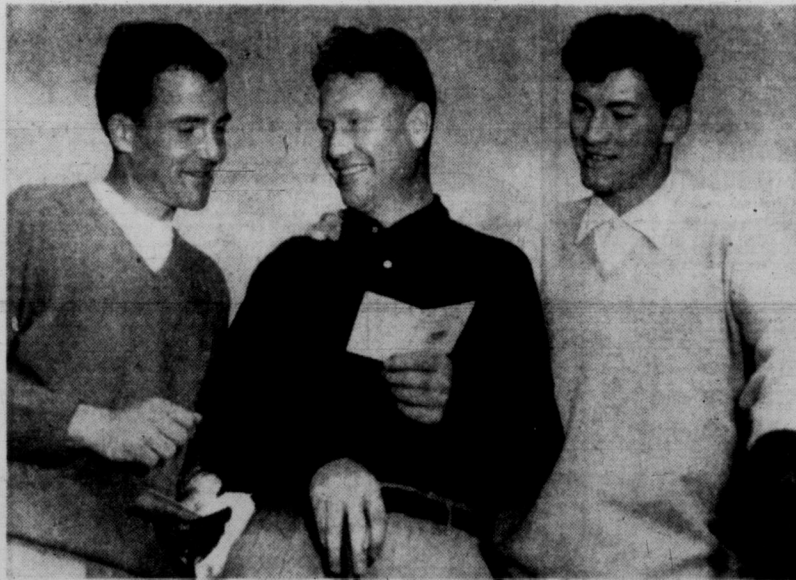

The same sources said a new defense line to protect Hanoi and the road and rail lifeline to the port of Haiphong would be established in a sweeping semicircle. The manoeuvre would flatten the French-held sector of the delta into a cigar-shaped area extending 80 miles from Son Tay in the west through Hanoi to the sea.

Communist Viet Minh pressure already was increasing on the north flank of the defense perimeter. Violent clashes between French union and Communist patrols were reported at Bao Ninh, 15 miles northwest of the capital.

Soon as the Russians swept Henley, they got interested in water sports. Just announced that the Straits would be swum by their own gal, Frozia Chadovitch.

In the U.S. they been celebrating "the spirit o' '76." In Canada we're bowin' our heads in tribute to the same number of holiday dead.

Defense Minister Ralph Campney sez he's going to reduce the arms budget. Could that be a cut in the cost o' livin'?

Parade of Champions

Colwood and Uplands golf clubs were "knee-deep" in top-flight golfers today as the 51st annual Pacific Northwest Golf Association championships opened with qualifying rounds at both clubs.

Among the classy shot-makers on hand, testing the qualifying list at Colwood were, left to right, Victoria's own Bob

Local Man Taken to Quebec As Police Probe Confessed 'Crime'

JUST for the RECORD

REALISTIC: In Frome, Eng., as part of a civil defense exercise Elizabeth Shortland, 50, was supposed to have a compound fracture of the left leg.

A bone was salvaged from a butcher shop, stuck into plastic and moulded onto her leg to look like a wound. A mixture of syrup and red paint was then sprinkled over it.

She was carried groaning from a movie theatre—supposedly hit by a bomb—on a stretcher. She showed signs of shock—blue lips and fingernails and a grey face—the result of skilful make-up.

At a civil defense rest centre a doctor ordered her removed to a hospital. En route, she confessed the hoax to attendants, but they thought she was delirious and refused to listen.

At the hospital, a call was put through for a doctor to come and operate on her.

Before anyone would believe she was just acting, the woman had to wag her "compound fractured" leg and pull off the lamb chop bone.

DUBIOUS: In Kendal, Eng., when the electricity board accused Dr. Edward H. Hopkinson of reconnecting power lines to his home after the current had been cut off because of non-payment of bills, Hopkinson replied not so.

He said he was getting his power from an "atomic egg" which "generates electricity by a process known as nuclear fission and is in its experimental stage."

The jury looked with reasonable doubt on this explanation and fined Hopkinson $196.

The country of Iraq was created at the end of Second World War.

ALLAN SIEMENS

Soldier Loses Death Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—The five-member court martial appeal board today dismissed the appeal of Pte. George Mitchell of Winnipeg from a murder conviction.

The 22-year-old soldier was sentenced to death by a Canadian Army court martial in Germany for the butchery of a woman.

The board's decision was unanimous and Mitchell has no further appeal. The cabinet, as in civilian cases, will decide whether the death sentence be carried out or commuted to life imprisonment.

DRIFTED LONG WAY
NEWPORT, Isle of Wight (CP)—A glass jar containing a Royal Australian Regiment cap badge and shoulder flash washed up here. A note inside said it was released from a ship off the Japanese coast in March, 1953.

Describing the first month of his attic life, Coney said: "When I heard Peters downstairs, I'd keep so still I'd almost hold my breath. Then I got bolder. I used to shadow him from room to room. It was a sort of game. It gave me a sort of thrill. It was the first time in my life I'd ever had anyone at my mercy."

CRUSHED FRIENDS' SKULL
Peters, alone in the house on Oct. 17, 1941, was napping on a couch in the living room.

Coney, who had been in the attic for a month, slipped down to the ice box to take some food. Something woke Peters, who discovered his old friend. They grappled in the living room. Coney grabbed a stove shaker, weighing about five pounds, and crushed Peters' skull with repeated blows.

Coney scurried back to the attic hideout with his "friendly spiders."

Hours later neighbors discovered Peters' body. Detectives swarmed through the house but none spotted the trap door leading to the hideaway.

Mrs. Peters, who was in a hospital with a broken hip at the time of the slaying, returned to their home to live. She was hard of hearing and, although she lived there several months, she was unaware of Coney's presence. But one housekeeper quit because of "ghost-like" noises.

In the spring of 1948, Mrs. Peters persuaded her to move to Grand Junction, Colo., to live with him.

Three months later a pair of detectives was assigned to maintain an around-the-clock watch of the Peters home. Reports of a haunted house, strange noises and flickering movements at the windows became too persistent for police to ignore.

CATCH LIVING SKELETON
On a sizzling July afternoon, two detectives crouched behind a nearly hedge peering. One of them saw a certain move.

Both pulled their guns and started searching the house. One looked in the closet just in time to see a ragged, skinny leg slithering through the ceiling hole into the attic. The officer grabbed, but the rotten cloth ripped away.

With a second grab the detective caught a dirty, bare foot. The scarecrow of a man gave up and five minutes later lay unconscious on the bedroom floor.

He had fainted from the excitement. A police ambulance doctor put a stethoscope to the almost-skeletal chest. "This is the worst case of malnutrition I have ever seen, but he'll live," the doctor said.

In hospital, Coney was found to weigh only 75 pounds. He said he never once left the house. He scooped snow from the roof gutters in the winter for drinking water, and found enough food on the premises to keep alive. After Mrs. Peters left in the spring of 1942 he lived mainly on home-canned jelly.

Three months later a pair of VANCOUVER (CP)—A 21-year-old British Columbia truck driver left here Sunday in custody of Quebec provincial police investigating circumstances surrounding a Hull, Que., fatality.

Headed for Hull under escort is Allen Siemens of Victoria and Abbotsford, B.C., who is alleged to have told Calgary police he pushed the body of a man named Clyde into the Ottawa River at Hull, Que., June 19.

A few days later, police found the body of Claude Pare, 19, in the river. They ruled his death accidental.

Siemens, who suffers from recurring attacks of amnesia, was first granted, then refused a remand when he appeared in police court here Saturday.

The remand was requested by Siemens' counsel, Harvey Grey, who said he could prove Siemens was at his home in Abbotsford when the "crime" was committed.

Magistrate Gordon Scott granted a remand until next Saturday after Mr. Grey told the court "there is no evidence there was a crime in Quebec."

However, the magistrate reversed his ruling after Montreal detectives Ubald Legault and Merrill Lawton successfully argued the magistrate had no right to grant a remand on a warrant issued in Quebec.

The two detectives and Siemens left for eastern Canada by air Sunday. Legault and Lawton had brought the young truck driver here from Calgary to check a number of details in his story told Alberta police.

Siemens' name was in newspaper headlines across Canada last December when he disappeared from his milk route in Victoria. He turned up about eight days later in Winnipeg, where he said he was attempting to enlist in the navy.

Siemens' pretty, dark-haired wife, Helen, mother of two children, said at the time her husband was subject to attacks of amnesia and he disappeared several times.

Rio Grande on Rampage

In one of the worst floods in the history of the Rio Grande, 62 Texans died as the swirling waters ravaged the state. Across the border in Mexico the death toll may reach 400. Clothing, food and medicine were being flown

NASTY—NOT NAUGHTY

TORONTO (BUP)—A legal definition of a vulgar barnyard expression stands in the books today for the benefit of John Ross and anyone else who's interested.

In the eyes of the law, this particular expletive is certainly vulgar, even in its common form as two initials, but it's not profane, obscene or lewd. It means, "Nonsense, you're all wrong."

Ross, a tire builder with Goodyear Rubber, was fired for using "obscene language" after his supervisor accused him of loafing on the job. His union took the issue to a three-man arbitration board.

The board gave Ross his job back and ruled that language in a factory is bound to be a little rough.

Rugged West Coast Hike Beats 10 Tillicum Scouts

Proposed route of the West coast of Vancouver Island road proved too tough for a 10-scout patrol from Victoria Tillicum Scout Troop last week.

Starting Wednesday from Jordan River, the boys had covered only 25 miles by Saturday and called the trail-breaking venture off.

Dense brush and tangled salal bushes were the main obstacles set up by the rugged terrain.

The patrol, in charge of Bob Webb, had planned to cross Jordan Meadows to Port Renfrew, then return home by way of Shawnigan Lake.

Worried parents had expected word from Renfrew of the troop's arrival Thursday night. Mr. Webb made contact with them that all was well.

Scout Jimmy Horne during the very early stages of the trip cut his leg with an axe. He was returned to Victoria for hospital treatment.

The Tillicums will spend the remainder of their outdoor camp swimming, fishing, hiking and mountain climbing around Jordan River.

For the next two months Scout and Cub groups of this area will spend from a week to 10 days either in camp at Camp Barnard, Sooke, or on other individual summer outings.

Will Review Defense Plans Says Campney
VANCOUVER (CP)—Defense Minister Ralph Campney said in an interview Saturday that Canada's vast defense program will be reviewed to seek economies.

He will tighten up on the entire $2,500,000,000-a-year defense structure.

"Every dollar is a dollar and it is also someone's tax dollar," he said.

Mr. Campney, appointed to the defense post Thursday, was interviewed by a Vancouver newspaper via long-distance telephone to Ottawa.

Mr. Campney was also quoted as saying he intends to pursue energetically the re-organization of the reserve army, and plans to give careful consideration to all problems of West Coast air defense.

"The chief need now in our defense program is to review carefully all our structure of defense, which has been built up in recent years under such great pressure," said Mr. Campney.

"While the defense emergency has not ended and indeed will probably be with us for a long time, we now are in a position to examine the whole picture in a business-like manner."

Joint Seaway Project Talks Start Today

OTTAWA (CP)—Preliminary discussions between Canadian and United States officials on construction of the St. Lawrence seaway open here today.

Top officers concerned with building and operating the navigation works of the $900,000,000 development are expected to draw up an agenda for later negotiations at cabinet level.

Members of a 16-man team of American officials arrived today by plane from Washington and were to sit down this afternoon with the Canadian group.

A Canadian spokesman said this meeting might conclude late today.

The main negotiations are expected to follow shortly, with the opening date probably being set today.

Main point to be worked out in the negotiations is a revision of a 1952 agreement between the two countries under which the U.S. conceded Canada should build the navigation facilities in the international rapids section of the Canadian side of the river.

Edmonton Police Fear Infant Carried Off

EDMONTON (CP)—Midnight brought to an end six days of full-scale searching for 2½-year-old Diane Mason.

Since she disappeared from the neighborhood of her east Edmonton home Wednesday, thousands of volunteers have scoured the 42-square-mile city in the largest search in Edmonton history.

Police said they are satisfied the little girl is not in the North Saskatchewan River, which flows near her home, nor in any of the areas searched. Detective Val Taylor, close to the search throughout, said police now support the theory that the child was carried away from her home.

There were dozens of reports of a blonde, plump little girl in various parts of the city but all proved fruitless.

The last important clue came Sunday night when a bus driver recalled seeing a woman and a little blonde girl get on his bus in the downtown area and leave at a stop in the west end. The child matched Diane's well-pub-

'Old Home Week' for Chadwicks

When Mrs. Mary Chadwick was watching her famous daughter Florence accept a fur-lined bathing suit at Hudson's Bay Company Saturday, she was surprised to hear a familiar voice cry "Hello, Mom!" It turned out to be the voice of Motorcycle Officer Frank Cassin of San Diego, who served on the force with Mrs. Chadwick's late husband and has rowed boats for Flo with her brother Dick. Holidaying in Victoria, the Cassins (Barbara and Frank, left; Carolyn and Frank, right) had a good visit with the Chadwicks, expressed belief that Flo would conquer the straits in her August attempt.

100 BRANDON FAMILIES THREATENED BY FLOODS

BRANDON (CP)—Residents of 100 homes in the low-lying north-end outskirts of Brandon have been warned to be prepared to evacuate if the expected crest of the rising Assiniboine River arrives here soon.

The river jumped 10 inches in the past 36 hours, bringing the level to 19 feet above normal, a record for 1954.

The water has already spilled over some dikes on the outskirts, flooding market gardens.

City workmen labored Saturday and Sunday to bolster the dike system.

Twenty miles west of here, the river has swollen to a point where it is more than a mile wide. Thousands of acres in the Griswold and Oak Lake areas are flooded.

CD PREPAREDNESS

Welfare Plan Ready to Work

If the third world war broke out most observers believe the main attacks would be aerial bombing of cities. The development of A-bombs and H-bombs since the last war seems to make this obvious. Thus, while the navy, army and air forces would have the job of repelling attacks and counter-attacking an enemy, civilians in each city would be involved as never before in warfare. How is Victoria prepared to meet such a contingency? In a series of articles Times Reporter Roy Thorsen has endeavored to answer this question. This is the sixth article.

By ROY THORSEN

Civil defense here has two welfare centres set up for immediate operation.

They are at the Seventh-Day Adventist Church on Hillside Avenue and the Langford Community Hall. Performance of both drew high praise from CD officials in the June 14 "Alert."

Ten other centres in the target area have been designated for the same purpose, but they are not fully organized and preparations are now under way to have some of them pushed far from the heart of any possible strike to handle large crowds of evacuees.

The whole Langford and Cordova Bay communities, for instance, are definitely in the planning to act as mass evacuation reception areas. Each could handle thousands, officials state.

Wholesale food supply firms have a committee set up that will allocate food in an emergency. Civil defense will have first call on everything in the eating line. J. B. Hardy is chairman of this group. There is only two weeks' supply of food in the area. An emergency would result in wholesalers ceasing to make general deliveries.

FIELD KITCHENS

Paul Arsens heads a committee charged with seeing that restaurants and cafes are moved to the welfare centres with their food supplies and staffs. Outside field kitchens would be erected.

Presumption is that thousands would be underclothed. Eddie Malek is in charge of a committee to see that clothing gets to welfare centres. This would be obtained from local stores and distributed by the various social welfare agencies, the Salvation Army taking a leading part.

The immense casualty clearing part of the program is in charge of Dr. W. S. Simpson.

A committee headed by W. G. Curtis of the Victoria Auto-Court Association will be in charge of emergency housing.

Mrs. W. H. Molson of the Canadian Red Cross is studying the problem of registration of all homeless and evacuees. She is getting together a trained staff for the huge job.

A Davidson of the city welfare department will be in charge of family counselling and financial assistance at each welfare centre.

MEDICAL PROGRAM

The massive medical end of the program would be taken care of by public health nurses. Miss M. Dunn of Saanich is the organizer.

Field work, which covers "on the spot" emergency feeding, clothing and general care, will be taken care of by Boy Scouts under Freeman King, executive commissioner, and the zone captains of the earlier Red Cross Disaster Plan, who are teaching home-nursing and self-help, each one in her own locality.

The engineering service would have a giant task. This group is in command of city engineer Cyril Jones. They would have to look after maintenance of roads and bridges, to rescue work, remove hazards, clear away debris, see that water, street lighting and sewage services are maintained and many other things.

H. Harris, R. H. Abbott and Capt. F. G. Hart are the three district controllers in the overall civil defense plan. "We still have a great deal to do to complete the building of this huge machine—and with the public help I'm sure we can do it," says Leonard Hatcher, CD director.

Canadians Spend Less on Fags, Liquor, Put More in Savings

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadians are spending less on tobacco and alcoholic beverages and putting more away in personal savings than they did four years ago, government financial accounts revealed today.

The accounts revealed that whereas Canadians put only 4.79 per cent of their total personal incomes into personal savings in 1950, they raised the figure to 8.28 per cent of the total in 1953. During the same period they trimmed their expenditures on tobacco and alcoholic beverages from 9.09 per cent of their total expenditure on consumer goods and services, to 8.79 per cent.

Canadians spent proportionately less on food, clothing and personal furnishings, and shelter, in 1953 than they did in 1950, and spent only slightly more on miscellaneous goods and services.

The report said that total personal income in 1953, after making last-minute revisions, was $18,096,000,000, compared with $13,414,000,000 in 1950. Personal savings last year were $1,499,000,000 compared with only $645,000,000 four years ago.

35 Known Dead In French Rail Disaster

Switchman Blamed For Head-On Crash

CHATEAUBOURG, France (AP)—A four-car autorail train traveling a mile-a-minute collided head-on Saturday night with an oncoming freight at the outskirts of this village in southern France.

Police said an inexperienced switchman who threw the wrong lever caused the wreck which claimed the lives of at least 35 men, women and children setting out for a holiday in this grape-growing country.

The accident was one in a series for public transportation facilities in Europe and elsewhere during the week-end. At Tetuan, capital of Spanish Morocco, a bus went over a cliff and killed 22 Moslem passengers. Six men were killed when a bus overturned near Valencia, Venezuela. At Pinerio, Italy, a train collision injured 11 persons. A similar mishap at Leibach near Graz, Austria, injured 17 passengers.

The toll in the French wreck may go higher.

Some 400 rescue workers were still picking bodies from the tangled wreckage 24 hours after the crash. Twenty-seven persons were severely injured and were being kept in nearby hospitals.

Police said the switchman had been on the job only two weeks and didn't know how to operate the switches well enough.

Valdmanis Hearings Postponed Nine Days

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The preliminary hearing into two fraud charges against Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis was postponed for nine days today on a Crown request.

Dr. Valdmanis, on a weekly remand for the past month, is awaiting trial on charges of defrauding $420,000 from a German machine company and the Newfoundland government.

No reason was given for the latest postponement.

Coroner Threatens to Hold Inquest in Witness's Suite

CHICAGO (UP)—The coroner's inquest into the death of her 20-year-old son in his mother's luxurious apartment "lock, stock and barrel" into his mother's luxurious apartment if she fails to appear at the hearing.

Coroner Walter J. McCarron issued the warning as he prepared to resume the sensational hearings Tuesday.

The mother, wealthy Mrs. Marion Thorne, has said she was too ill with asthma to testify about the strange death of her son.

Thorne, who would have come into an inheritance of at least $1,300,000 on his 21st birthday, was found sprawled across his bed. There were nine needle marks on his arms and evidence of a sex and narcotics party was found in the room.

Beyond Guatemala

IN THESE DAYS OF VAST armies and atomic power events in the little state of Guatemala may appear rather like the plot of a musical comedy. But large affairs, probably larger than the participants suppose, lie behind the recent revolution.

To begin with, the United States obviously has done everything politically possible—how much we may never know—to assist a revolution against a government of Communist tinge.

There is no question about that. The only question, as The Christian Science Monitor remarks, is "Whether the United States can manipulate an operation of this kind skilfully and successfully." And in this imperfect world, The Monitor adds, "It seems obvious that it is better to give judicious and discreet support to a friendly revolutionary movement than to allow Communism to establish and maintain a Soviet military and ideological base in the middle of Central America."

But if the immediate trouble in Guatemala is settled by the techniques of realpolitik the larger troubles of South America thus revealed remain unsettled and they are extremely serious to this entire hemisphere.

Latin American nations, with few if any exceptions, are losing confidence in the leadership of the United States. During the Second World War they prospered on enormous exports to the hungry North American market and piled up handsome reserves of gold and dollars. These were quickly squandered in the early years of peace instead of being thrifly used to build up the Latin American economies.

While their prosperity declined, the Latin Americans watched the United States give away $25 billions to foreign nations, of which the countries south of the Rio Grand received only about half a billion. Quite unfairly, the United States was accused of discriminating against its closest neighbors when, in fact, it was desperately trying to protect them, and the entire hemisphere, by preventing the collapse of Europe into Communism.

The United States could finance one Marshall Plan, but not two at the same time. And sorely pressed in Europe, then in Asia, Washington observed countries like Argentina making a hopeless mess of their own economic affairs and blaming everybody but themselves.

Nevertheless, Latin America has a valid case against some aspects of American policy. It cannot hope to prosper without larger sales of goods to the United States but finds the American market, for all the post-war reductions in customs walls, still barred by substantial tariffs. That is equally true of many other markets, including the Canadian.

The Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower governments have all recognized those facts and over and over again, at many inspiring hemispheric conferences, have proposed a new deal in inter-American trade. Nothing much has come out of these promises so far and South America is suffering from deferred hope and disillusionment.

Russia, as usual, seizes the opportunity to fish in troubled waters and was fishing successfully in the dark stream of Guatemala's politics until it was interrupted by a sudden counter-revolution. Apparently the Communist danger is repelled there but the basic problem of hemispheric relations will remain. It cannot be solved until the channels of trade, within this hemisphere, and in the free world at large, are opened wider and the poorer states given a better chance to sell their goods.

That is what Mr. Eisenhower means when he urges freer trade on the American Congress. In South America he finds a new, pressing and easily-understood argument for his policy.

Dr. Bunche and the Loyalty Tests

THE CIVILIZED WORLD recognized the stature of Dr. Ralph Bunche when the distinguished American Negro stepped into the shoes of murdered Count Folke Bernadotte to bring a measure of peace to Arabs and Israelis in the flaming years following the creation of the state of Israel.

Since that time Dr. Bunche has become widely known to the people of this country. Bestowed upon him were the Nobel Peace Prize and many honorary degrees from North American universities.

That measure of eminence did not, however, provide a shield against the witch-hunters. Dr. Bunche twice faced loyalty boards, once for almost 12 hours. The results of their inquiries are summed up in the statement of the boards chairman last May 28: "There is no doubt as to the loyalty of Dr. Bunche to the United States."

Now, according to report, the testimony of some witnesses involved in the case is being studied to determine if it provides grounds for perjury prosecutions. It is to be hoped that study will be pressed.

In the eyes of fair-minded men, little stigma will be attached to the great Negro director of the UN trusteeship department because of the hearings. They have served merely to strengthen his position as an internationalist with a sincere sense of responsibility to his own country.

Those who have challenged his loyalty—and thereby raised question over his character—have merely placed themselves in a most invidious position. They are stamped with their own vicious brand. What the United States authorities do with them is United States business. Yet, to protect the reputation of that country in the eyes of the free world, it appears necessary that they be exposed and disciplined.

Such a course would establish some evidence at least of the American determination to protect honest men from the insidious attacks of those who make a profession of the smear.

Back at Work

FINAL DETAILS OF THE dispute between the city and members of the outside staff have yet to be resolved by arbitration. In the meantime, the men are back at work.

That is the important development for the taxpayers who pay the men's wages, who provide the council's indemnities and who expect their elected representatives to see that essential services continue without interruption.

This happy turn of affairs is the result of a majority council decision. To reach it five aldermen very rightly rejected the mayor's cranky legalisms and took the action which put men back on the job.

Einstein and the Pravda Look

RUSSIANS HAVE BEEN LEARNING more than how to play ice hockey and how to row shells from the west in recent years. They have been learning, it appears, that all that is best is not necessarily of Soviet origin.

That is the direct implication of Pravda's criticism of USSR physicists. Pravda attacks the scientists of Russia for not paying enough heed to the works of Albert Einstein because they disapprove of his "dark idealistic viewpoint."

Because they haven't been keeping up with Einstein, physicists under the hammer and sickle have suffered delays in their research into supersonic speed. They have, according to Pravda, "missed the practicality of the new science of physics, not even noticing it. At the same time were ignored such important spheres as the physics of supersonic sounds coming close to the speed of light, speeds whose theory was given by Einstein."

Here, apparently, is a new awareness of things as they are, not as they might be under the transmutation of Soviet history-manufacturers and scientific re-write men.

But while Pravda is in the mood, it might urge another look at the so-called "dark idealistic viewpoint" of Mr. Einstein. It might learn there something equally important to living as any theory on the speed of light.

Another Outburst of Crocodile Tears

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

A FEW days ago I was mentioning to you an old story in the Boys' Own Paper called 'The Sheikh's White Slave.' Later, I wondered to myself how many different pictures of a "typical" sheikh our minds contained when we were young and when the romantic idea of sheikhdom was young.

In the 1920's, say, the sheikhs of the cheap novels were very much like those of Hollywood. I suppose, Valentino stuff—cold eyes, hot breath, smooth skin—the only warm-blooded reptiles in existence.

Even at 15 it puzzled me to discover WHY any woman should want to be abducted by a lizard or a young python. I preferred the sheikhs of P. C. Wren and Sabatini, who needed more baths but took fewer ones. And whose actions were openly scoundrelly. Not that I knew much more about sheikhs than the girls did. I only knew my brother Tom was wrong in thinking all sheikhs came from a place called Arabek.

DURING the last war, only ten years ago, my brother Tom ran across some sheikhs that would have horrified Miss Hull, Miss Dell, Mr. Valentino, and all the rest. These were in the Persian Gulf—on its shore, I mean. For example, there was one who was Führer of a fair-sized community and who ruled it with all the cruelty of Stalin or Hitler and then some. In fact, as one British officer put it, you wouldn't believe there could be such cruelty outside Europe.

Here are some details: "He killed three men the other day. Let them die of thirst in a dungeon. They are my men," he explained, "so surely I can do what I like with them." Actually, he had some excuse, for they blipped him on the head one night with a club and broke his skull, and it made him downright angry. I saw his wound, and there is no mistake about what they meant.

"He still believes the correct punishment for theft is cutting off a man's hand, and there is much evidence about that his subjects were thought dishonest. He slashes with his sword or knife when annoyed, and his retinue is held together with bandages... that may be a slight exaggeration, but only slight. He got a confession from a suspected thief by stretching him taught on a rack and putting hot irons on his tightened belly muscles till the muscles themselves were exposed.

"When I landed I was greeted by an old man I thought was behaving rather oddly and under some strain. I didn't discover till the sheikh told me later that he'd just had a public lashing. The sheikh was furious at this offender, befriending me, seeking sympathy. It wouldn't surprise me if he didn't get some more whippings to correct this error.

"THE Sheikh asked me for a laxative that would work only 'in the daytime. He was afraid to go out at night, because he didn't even trust his own bodyguard.

"I made quite a lucky surreptitious sketch of him, which won his complete approval. He was delighted. He was thoughtful enough not to want to deprive me of it, but said naively that it would be nice if I could do another and then we'd each have one. So he posed, and the second was rather better than the first and he was pleased as a kid.

"One of our sailors produced tea. 'He hated to have to wait on a 'black man,' even though a king, but he laughed it off with a cheery 'Here you are, Sheekey old boy.' Sheekey, of course, doesn't know a word of English, and thought the tone respectful enough.

"ON board our little ship he was greatly interested in telescopes, binoculars, compass, and armament. He was also interested in Hanuman, our pet monkey. He said 'Will he bite?' and we said 'Oh no,' whereupon Hanuman let out a scream of fury and leapt on the Crown Prince and savaged him. The little brat was petrified. I hope we concealed our mirth—but I doubt it.

"On being pulled off, the monkey dove through a scuttle and after a few moments of ominous silence we hauled him in his laundry. He had hold of a large basket of prawns which wouldn't come through the scuttle, so he seized a double armful of prawns, let go the basket, and came up simply draped with prawns. When we deprived him of the lot he went into a complete tantrum, ready to savage everyone. The Arabs went into a panic, as they aren't used to monkeys. The rest of us were laughing which displeased both the Arabs and the monkey. Hanuman can't bear being laughed at. Neither can Arabs.

"IN the middle of tea the Sheikh decided he must say his prayers. (And well he might!) He asked for a private room. The skipper was quite indignant. "There is no private room in a ship, this size." Then I must pray in my dhow," said the Sheikh. After his prayers he came back and finished his tea, and had a final look through the binoculars. We gave him a tin of apricots which he coveted and a Hindustani gramophone record, and he went away happily enough but with a queer conception of life in the Navy. What he wanted was 21-gun salutes and bosuns' pipes and all that."

Mr. Needles and the Tariff

From The Winnipeg Free Press

AT THE annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, protectionist interests found an appropriate and persuasive voice in Mr. Ira G. Needles, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Canada. It is most interesting that Mr. Needles, in developing his argument, adhered faithfully to the strategy mapped out by the Financial Post and duly noted in these columns.

With one eye upon the Liberal Government and the other upon a public, which has long shown itself intolerant of tariff pleas, the speaker interlarded his remarks with virtuous references to foreign trade, contending indeed that his only thought was to modernize a tariff structure now sadly out of date.

The calculation behind this agitation should be sufficiently evident. At all costs, the public is not to be frightened by protectionist crudities of earlier days. Mr. Needles, fairly radiating enlightenment, concedes that if Canada wishes to sell, she must also be willing to buy.

With this in mind, he declares righteously that he is not advocating "tariffs so high that they exclude foreign goods. He perceives indeed that there is a place for increased imports. Some existing tariffs serve only to raise revenue and should be discarded. Mr. Needles would admit goods which (mark this well) "complement" Canadian production—since they are not manufactured here—or which compete on "fair and reasonable" terms with Canadian products. He would substitute for what he calls the present "open door," the policy of a door "slightly ajar."

If Mr. Needles will refer back to the speeches of Hon. H. H. Stevens in the late '20s, he will find that this argument is less modern and more sophisticated than he may perhaps assume. Mr. Stevens argued for a "scientific tariff" which, under Mr. Bennett, turned out to be the highest in Canadian history.

If we are to import only goods which we do not manufacture ourselves or if tariffs are to be raised in order to "equalize" competitive positions, then indeed we shall be headed for a regime of thoroughgoing self-sufficiency. What Mr. Needles calls "fair and reasonable" competition looks very much like no competition at all.

Among the "antiquated" tariffs, which should be scrapped, are those which have been used as a screen for Canadian combines. A good example is provided by passenger and bus-truck tires and tubes which paid duties of 25 per cent prior to the Torquay conference, when the rate was reduced to 22½ per cent.

The Canadian rubber companies, which were convicted last year of combine offences stretching over 15 years, erected during that period a uniform price system based upon this protection. Their charges to Canadian consumers bore no particular relation to manufacturing costs in this country but instead reflected an agreed differential between U.S. and Canadian price lists.

Mr. Needles will remember this well; he was a principal witness before the Combines Commission and the author of many documents quoted in the Report. Indeed it was Mr. Needles who, anticipating an inquiry by the Combines branch, warned one of his managers to "keep that word 'agree' out of the Minutes" of inter-company meetings.

Many other examples come to mind. Rubber footwear has carried similar tariff rates, though free under the British preference. Here again a Canadian combine was convicted last year. Mr. Needles, whose company was involved, will have no difficulty in recalling the circumstances. For the same reason memories of the tariff-protected mechanical rubber goods combine, which was prosecuted at the same time, will also be fresh in his mind.

If there is to be a review of the Canadian tariff structure, it should be with the object of exploring the field for a further liberalization of trade. Unfortunately certain recent manifestations of protectionism in the United States have created an atmosphere in this country which Mr. Needles, and those who think like him, apparently consider favorable to tariff-mongering in Canada. While as yet they do not talk the old-fashioned protectionist language of "brick for brick," the intent of the current agitation should be plain to all.

The Neighbors Stood Firm

BY ROSCOE DRUMMOND, From Washington

THOSE who knew what was at stake in the Guatemalan revolution were almost literally holding their breaths over the uncertain chain of events which is now leading to a good end.

The greatest danger is over. Communism has been successfully denied a dangerous foothold in the Western Hemisphere.

The peril of allowing the Soviet Union to plant a headquarters for its conspiracy in the midst of this hemisphere can hardly be overestimated. It was not easy to avert it. It has been averted but with difficulty and with many anxious and uncertain moments.

The latest developments are encouraging. The pro-Communist, pro-Moscow government of President Jacobo Arbenz fell on Monday—unable to resist the united pressure of the Latin American nations and the gathering force of the anti-Communist rebel leader, Col. Carlos Castillo Armas.

Its obedient successor, a military junta headed by Col. Carlos Diaz, who appeared to be fronting for the pro-Communist Arbenz, fell on Tuesday for the same reasons.

The third Guatemalan government in three days—and every change appears more anti-Communist—assumed office on Wednesday. It ordered a cease fire, accepted the terms offered by the counter-revolutionary forces, and Colonel Armas will undoubtedly become a leading figure in the new regime.

COMMUNISTS OUT

The Communists are out—decisively. They are either in jail, underground or fleeing.

The umbilical cord which bound Guatemala to the Soviet Union has been severed.

It would be a grave mistake to believe the danger which has presently been averted or to assume that its return does not have to be vigilantly watched.

There are some who have tended to dismiss the danger as puny and petty—a little pro-Communist, pro-Soviet government in a little Latin American country (3½ million people) with little power and little support, like a gnat on the back of your wrist which could be brushed off at will.

No, that is the appearance but not the substance of what was at the point of fastening itself in the midst of the Western Hemisphere.

The pro-Communist Guatemalan regime had accepted $10,000,000 worth of Soviet arms.

It offered a spreading base of operations for Soviet manoeuvre throughout Latin America.

It was amassing a military strength greater than all three of its surrounding neighbors combined.

It was becoming a tight, disciplined, tyrannical dictatorship which would shortly have been in a position to begin its undermining operations among the other American nations whose governments are often weak and unstable.

The Guatemalan dictatorship would have been poison to the relations of all the hemisphere republics and a burrowing thorn in the side of the organization of the American states.

You can never measure the power for disruption of a Communist regime by its size. There are only 6,000,000 members of the Communist party in the Soviet Union. The pro-Communist Arbenz government was dependent upon Soviet arms and was proving itself an obedient tool of Soviet policy and a planned springboard for Communist agents.

CREDIT TO AMERICAN STATES

Much credit belongs to the OAS (Organization of American States) for setting in motion the series of events which led to the downfall of the Arbenz government. A good clue to its importance is the fact that the Arbenz regime was working to the last to keep the OAS from taking jurisdiction of the fighting in Guatemala. Its hope was to get the matter on the agenda of the United Nations Security Council where the Soviet veto could paralyze all action and where the Soviet delegate could busy himself mixing up the issues.

This manoeuvre failed. It failed because the Western Hemisphere republics were prescient enough to get into the UN charter the provision that first jurisdiction of any regional dispute should be with the regional organization, in this instance the OAS.

Through it all the United States has acted within the framework of the OAS and has stood firmly on the principle that the American republics must act together to prevent Communist infiltration into the Western Hemisphere. The OAS voted 18 to 1 to summon the foreign ministers into session and the prospect of collective sanctions against the Guatemalan regime was visibly imminent. With the mounting force of the internal resistors, this prospect was sufficient to put the pro-Communist dictatorship to flight.

There is reason to be profoundly relieved that it is no longer with us.

As Our Readers See It

ENTERING A NEW AGE

It is quite possible that I am mistaken, but I am convinced that we have entered in the New Age. The Book speaks of a period—arriving—when, quote "There should be time no longer," and it being now quite possible to partake of breakfast in London and arrive at New York in time for breakfast on the same day, time is annihilated!

In the introduction to his book, "Man the Unknown", Alexis Carrel says, "Like sheep at the approach of a storm, civilized humanity feels the presence of danger." And, at this time we are forced to admit that modern humanity is being crucified (as it were) on a cross of fire.

The most critical period of this earth's history, past, present, or future, will eventuate when the Kremlin receives quote "tidings out of the east and out of the north that shall trouble him." That is when Red China is weaned away from Russia and goes over onto the side of the Western Nations. Civil Defence will then be put upon its merits, and that is the time, too, when a Higher Power will intervene to shorten these days of crisis for the sake of the sheep nations.

Thinking people are beginning to realize this. Sir Winston's effort at the present time is concentrated on dividing Red China from Russia and he knows that that can not be accomplished by bombing China. This is pure diplomacy, and he will not be disappointed. Russia's great hope is for us to be drawn into a huge conflagration with six hundred million Chinese!

What we are seeing is the "birth pangs" of a new world being born, and The Book says "When ye see these things know that your redemption draweth nigh."

WHEN WORK IS UNDONE

Since looking over Beacon Hill Park last Wednesday, I am constrained to mention that the lesson is obvious as to how much the outside municipal workers do in the park in normal routine, and how soon everything suffers for lack of their attention!

Also, I would ask, where is the public's community spirit, when they can litter up acres with papers and bags, etc. etc., without thought for those who come after them? And, mind you, the elders are just as much to blame as children!

Speaking of the Park, may I mention that I would like to see the deer enclosure looking less like a barnyard.

Why not triple the area and have one-third fallowed and seeded, or just rested every year? I'm sure it would pay.

Red Letter Days

THE Alpine Flower calendar on our kitchen wall has every other Friday ringed around in red. Those are the days the Bookmobile comes to our little portion of Saanich, and they're red-letter days for all the families living along this particular stretch of road.

Even a short stop like ours took much careful thought and planning. (The overall schedule for the Bookmobile, of course, was worked out by John Marshall, drawing on his experience with the highly successful Bookmobile that operates in the Fraser Valley.)

Roughly speaking, the afternoon stops are the longer ones, and are generally near a centre of adult population and not too far from a school. Wednesdays have been chosen for Brentwood and Royal Oak because the Women's Institutes in those places meet on a Wednesday, and every so often Bookmobile Day and Women's Institute Day coincide. The morning stops are short, a kind of pause-as the Bookmobile with its crew of three goes out to its afternoon "date."

Before our stop was fixed for sure, we had an informal canvass of the neighborhood. The reactions varied. Too busy with the vegetable garden, said one woman. Don't seem to read much now we have television, said another. Plenty of books of our own, said a third. And one kind, considerate soul said that she didn't read much because of her eyes, but if it would help to get the Bookmobile for the others in the district, she'd pretend like mad and make a definite point of borrowing books. But all the households with children were wildly enthusiastic.

It's hard when you have young children and only get into Victoria once or twice a month, to find time to fit in a visit to the library.

On June 10, the day before the Bookmobile made its first trip to us, Miss Dora Payne rang up.

"Eleven-fifteen till 12 noon," said Miss Payne. "We're not allowed to stop on the road because we're too big. So we'll back into a driveway that we checked on when we made our special inspection trip. Could you maybe let the neighbors know when we'll be there?"

I was too lazy to rush around and tell the neighbors, so I simply told a couple of the kids. Out in a rural district that's all you need to do. In next to no time, the grapevine was working to capacity.

At 11.15, right on the dot, the now-familiar pale green bulk was backing into the next door drive. For the Bookmobile is a one-piece effort—all under the same roof, as it were—and not like an "insect-jointed" freight truck with cab, wasp-waist and separate trailer.

Inside it's 87 inches wide and measures 75 inches from finished floor (linoleum with central rubber strip) to finished ceiling, complete with skylights. The lighting is a combination of fluorescent and incandescent. The heating is done by rock gas.

There are two doors on one side for the borrowers to use, and an escape door on the opposite side by the driver's seat. It carries about 2,500 books on every trip, and the whole set-up is just as practical and sensible as it could be.

The borrowers enter by the door nearest the driver because the checking-in desk is there. They return their books and then pass down the body of the van which is lined with books from floor to ceiling. The checking-out desk is by the rear or exit door.

The children's books are along one side in two big sections and the picture books for the little children are on two special low shelves. The small children crouch there, with their hands on their knees in the supple loose-jointed way of childhood.

But what I like so much about the Bookmobile is the springy feel of the floor that makes me imagine for a second that I'm on the deck of a ship and off on a voyage to some new and exciting place. This sense of taking a trip is also in the stepping stools the librarians put down by the doors. Pale grey in color, they remind me of the stools Negro porters put by coach doors on transcontinental trains.

And those of us who use the Bookmobile are taking a trip of a kind. Last week, for instance, I came home with books that carried me in thought to Albania, South America, the Red Sea and the villages of southern England.

And the days the Bookmobile comes to us aren't like ordinary days at all. They're set apart and special.

"Bookmobile's here," yelled a 12-year-old as he crashed through the house to get his library card. "You coming? Hurry up, hurry up! Everyone's down there already and we're going to be late."

By the time I'd torn off my apron, snatched a cake from the oven, seen it sink in sullen protest, and hustled down our dusty drive, the neighbors were all gathered round the Bookmobile. Even a woman from way down the road, came hurrying along with her baby in the pram and a pre-school child trotting at her side.

As for the children whose yard the Bookmobile draws up in, their eyes were popping almost out of their heads.

After all, it's not every small boy who can boast, "Yep. Book Beal stops right in my yard!"

Sovereignty of West Germany Being Studied By U.S., U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — An return of sovereignty to West Germany should there be in began work today at the foreign office on plans for the possible restoration of sovereignty to West Germany in the near future.

The group, set up following last week's Washington talks between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill, was presided over by Sir Frank Roberts, deputy undersecretary responsible for German affairs at the British foreign office.

Its main task is to make recommendations on plans for the

Stripped of Country's Secrets Mr. Atom Back in Ivory Tower

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—In one sense, Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer is returning to the ivory tower from which he was shaken loose 12 years ago to direct the making of history's first atomic bomb.

Stripped of access to his country's secrets, the famed physicist makes it clear he now will devote himself again to the relatively cloistered life of abstract science.

But in another sense, the ivory tower will never be the same.

For Oppenheimer also makes it clear he will never again be the politically naive professor he was back in the 1930s. In those days, he has said, he was so indifferent to the affairs of the world around him he didn't even read newspapers.

READS PAPERS NOW

"I should think," he says now, "that you wouldn't step twice in the same river. History does not repeat itself that way. At least, I've learned to read newspapers since then."

Is he ever sorry he "learned" to read newspapers?

Dr. Oppenheimer's gaunt, bird-like face broke into a wry grin. His intense blue eyes relaxed. "I think I am."

The scientist, who lost his long fight for security clearance reinstatement because of "fundamental defects of character," was interviewed in the office where he directs—and expects to continue to direct—the Institute of Advanced Study.

Somewhere upstairs, Albert Einstein was working alone in a small room on his profound theories. In Oppenheimer's office, books were neatly piled on his conference table and desk. Behind the desk, big windows opened on to broad lawns and the soothing shade of tall maples.

The office was serene. The man in it wasn't. He chain-smoked and fidgeted, but then he always has. He talked cautiously and nervously of his future, but only in response to questions.

Would he comment on reports that he was so bitter he intended to live and work abroad?

"It is not true," he said, "that I have ever thought of leaving this country, nor can I imagine circumstances under which I would."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Heart Block

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Many persons ask what is meant by a heart block or a bundle branch block. In order to explain I will have to point out first that the heart-beat begins in a little node of special tissue up where the big veins come into the right auricle, or upper chamber of the heart. From this node the beat shoots downward through the heart, following a band of special conducting tissue.

Sometimes a tiny artery which supplies a little segment of this band more or less plugs up, and then there is a small area which conducts slowly. In rare instances, it does not conduct at all. In some cases, especially when the interference with conduction is due to nervous effects, the blockage is temporary.

Most blockages go unrecognized until the man happens to have an electrocardiogram made. Then it is noted that the interval of time between the beat of the auricles and the ventricles has been lengthened, from perhaps a normal 0.20 second to perhaps 0.30 of a second. Temporary blockage can be due to nervous influences or to an overdose with drugs such as digitalis and quinidine, or rarely, to some infection such as mumps. If the difficulty in conduction is bad enough, every second or third beat starting in the auricles will fail to get through to the ventricles.

DOCTOR MAY NOT TELL

Much more common are what are called bundle branch blocks in which a branch of the conducting band is injured. Thousands of persons have a bundle branch block and never know about it until they get an electrocardiogram made. Usually then they need not worry about it. Never blame your doctor if he does not mention such a block to you; he may know that you are a worrier, and in that case, he knows that your knowledge that there is something wrong with your heart may wreck your happiness and your health.

Naturally, when any part of the conducting bundle is destroyed, a doctor can not build it back, hence, so long as the person lives, he is likely to have the abnormal electrocardiogram. But he must not have horrors over it.

When I was a boy in Hawaii, I used to watch the fishermen mending their nets.

nets. There, perhaps, would be a hole cut by a piece of coral, and there was a hole where a shark had torn his way out. After it was repaired, the net was full of scars, but still it was a good useful net that did its work perfectly every day. There is many a heart like that; full of little scars, but doing its work well enough year after year.

Because there are some conditions and some drugs which make conduction better or worse, the man with a symptom-producing block should see an expert physician and take his advice. The doctor probably will not try to treat the block; but he may try to treat the disease that produced it.

Many young people with a partial heart block left behind by some rheumatic infection, live out a comfortable and long life. A friend of mine who got such a severe heart injury when he was in college 50 years ago, died last year when he was about 75. The wise man will not get panicky about a block if his heart specialist tells him not to worry.

PHLEBITIS

One of the common diseases of man is phlebitis, or an inflammation of the veins. This usually involves the veins in the legs and thighs. Ordinarily, it is just a nuisance, but sometimes it is very dangerous as when it follows an operation or a confinement. After confinement, it produces what is called a "milk leg." It is bad enough if the clot that forms sticks solidly to the walls of the vein; the situation is very dangerous if the clot gets loose and is washed up into the lung. Then, for a time, the person can be seriously ill.

Today this accident is often avoided by giving the patient substances like dicoumarol and heparin which make it harder for the blood to clot. The person who is most likely to have trouble after an operation is a stout, elderly woman.

Usually, after an attack of phlebitis, for the rest of the person's life there is a tendency to swelling of the involved leg, especially toward the end of a busy day. Then, the person may have to wear an elastic bandage or perhaps in mild cases, an elastic stocking. Today, elastic stockings are being made which are not too ugly.

The average physician like myself doesn't know a great deal about phlebitis or how to treat it, but fortunately, now in large clinics and university medical schools, there are men who are specializing in this field.

Dr. Alvarez regrets he hasn't the time in which to read or answer requests for information.

B.C. Telephone Company's Fast Growing Family Now 6,000 Strong

The telephone business is getting more and more complicated because technical advances and engineering improvements are adding to the quality of service. But, despite this, our business is still essentially people.

It's still the men and women of the company who make it possible for you to use your telephone. Buildings, modern equipment, miles of wire . . . all depend upon the people who keep them operating.

There are now more than 6,000 persons on the B.C. Telephone Company payroll . . . more than double the number employed 10 years ago. This growth in numbers reflects the sudden and steady increase in demand for telephone service.

To select and train these people is no easy job. The company has very high standards of education, physical fitness, aptitudes, skills and personality that must be met. After joining the company most of the new employees are given thorough training on the job and often in a classroom as well.

Selection of men to do the plant jobs—linemen, installers, spicers—is particularly difficult because there is no ready market of trained men on which to draw. These trades are so specialized that new employees are usually unskilled and must receive complete training after they are hired.

But in whatever branch of the telephone service they may be, the company is proud of the fine record maintained by its more than 6,000 telephone people.

Council Group Braves Snow To View Proposed Watershed

CHEMAINUS—Holyoak Lake, nestled on the slopes of Mount Brenton, and source of water under the new water scheme for Chemainus, was visited recently by members of North Cowichan council, officials of MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., Chemainus division, and an official of Van-West Logging Company.

Making the trip were Reeve C. A. P. Vande Casteven, municipal clerk; Perry Ross, municipal works superintendent.

First portion of the trip was made over the new MacMillan & Bloedel logging road to Copper Canyon.

RAILROAD GRADE

At mile "9" on the new road, the group turned abruptly up the old Hillcrest logging road for a rough and winding nine-mile ride. A former railroad line, the road is narrow and on a 6 per cent grade. According to Perry Ross, now municipal works superintendent, who built a number of logging roads in the area, the Hillcrest company

WATER BOARD SPONSOR OF GARDEN CONTEST

BRENTWOOD—Sponsorship of a "Make Brentwood Beautiful" garden contest has been announced by the Brentwood Waterworks District.

With the object of encouraging this activity during the 1954 season, three classes have been opened for competition. They will be for the best all-round vegetable garden, best flower and shrub display, and best lawn (size no factor).

A board of outside judges will decide the competition winners, with judging to take place during the month of August. Handsome trophies in the form of cups will be awarded the successful competitors at the annual meeting of the waterworks district. All trophies will be held for one year.

All entry forms must be received by secretary Ernest Lee, Brentwood Bay, not later than July 31.

North Cowichan Backs Plan For District Water Survey

CHEMAINUS—North Cowichan Council will support the Agricultural Society in its efforts to have the provincial government make a water resources survey of the district.

J. T. Sharpe, representing the Agricultural Society, told members of council that his group had sent a brief to the government in the summer of 1953 asking that a such survey be made.

The society, he said, had been working on the matter for the past three years, as the valley was short of water both for domestic and irrigation purposes. He pointed out that an economic means of supply, sufficient for both would be of benefit to the municipality.

EXPERT OPINION

Unofficially, Mr. Sharpe said, the group had brought two men in from the United States, conversant with irrigation systems, to look over the district, and it was their opinion that an irrigation system must be coordinated to cover the entire area involved, and not be merely three or four separate systems.

The brief had in succession been turned over from the minister of lands to the Dominion Committee on Agriculture, and then to the conservation committee. The Agricultural Society would appreciate the council's assistance in pursuing the matter.

Mr. Sharpe said, and suggested that a water resources committee be formed within the council.

Answering a question from one of the councillors, Mr. Sharpe said that the area suggested to come under the proposed irrigation system would cover from 30,000 to 40,000 acres extending from Stratford's Crossing to the Mill Bay-Shawinigan Road.

Reeve Munson felt that the council should help out in any way possible as the district needed water.

Councillor Don Morton, who is a member of the society, will draft a letter on the subject to be forwarded to the provincial government.

Well-Known Minister Retires at Qualicum

Rev. A. E. Cooke, Clergyman for 53 Years; Built First Church-Owned Radio Station

QUALICUM BEACH—One of the longest careers in the Christian church on this coast came to an end here when Rev. A. E. Cooke, DD, retired from the active ministry after 53 years of service.

Formerly minister of St. John's United Church in Vancouver, he was well known for 15 years for his Sunday Forum services which were noted for the wide variety and ability of the speakers from all parts of the earth.

Since 1950 Dr. Cooke has been at St. Stephen's Church, Qualicum Beach, and Grace Church, Combs, and until the division of the large parish was in charge of Knox Church, Parksville, and St. Andrew's, Errington.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, Dr. Cooke was educated in public schools and at Lurcan College, County Down. He came to Canada in 1901 to Manitoba College, Winnipeg, as a Presbyterian student for the ministry, and preached in a number of prairie centres for six years.

ORDAINED IN 1907

In 1907 he was ordained in the Congregational Church of Canada, and served in Saskatchewan and Ontario, moving to Vancouver in 1912, where he was called to Kitsilano Congregational Church. Three years later he took charge of First Congregational Church in the West End, now St. James' United, for eight years.

During this period he was an outstanding leader in the social and moral life of Vancouver and the province, leading the Ministerial Association in a campaign which hit the government of the day so effectively that it was swept out of office in 1916.

He was president of the People's Prohibition Association of B.C., and built the first radio station to be owned by any church in Canada—station CKFC (for First Congregational), which later merged with CKWX. This was the origin of the United Church broadcasting in the province.

In 1948, Union College of B.C. conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity, and in 1949 the Civil Liberties Union honored him with the Garnett Sedgwick Award for "outstanding service to the cause of civil liberties" in the province.

In July, 1950, Dr. Cooke resigned from St. John's United and came to Qualicum Beach in search of a more restful time. His service here has resulted in great advances in all local churches, including the re-modelling and renovation of Knox Church, Parksville.

Dr. and Mrs. Cooke will continue to reside in Qualicum Beach. His farewell sermons were preached on Sunday at St. Stephen's here, and at Grace Church, Combs.

Sooke District Defense Groups Meeting Tonight

SOOKE—Civil defense welfare groups from Sooke and Metchosin will meet tonight at the Parish Hall, Metchosin, for instruction in registration.

Mrs. S. C. Fawcus, Vancouver, Red Cross liaison officer, and civil defense officers and chief wardens of this area will attend.

Capt. P. W. de P. Taylor, chief warden, has announced that the recent "Exercise Alert" proved that the air raid siren at Sooke is inadequate.

He said steps will be taken toward improving the situation. Shirley has been organized as a mutual aid and reception area in the Greater Victoria civil defense scheme, according to recently-completed plans.

Luxton Hall Group Elects B. Powers

LUXTON—B. Powers was elected chairman of the Luxton community hall committee at the regular meeting of the board, and C. F. Moseley was named secretary-treasurer.

It was announced that $15.11 had been realized from a garden festival held at the Glen Lake home of Mr. and Mrs. Moseley, in which the Happy Valley PTA and Women's Institute took part.

This is the area where the United States staged the tests. Some of the 22 scientists scoffed at the "over-nervous" Japanese who destroyed quantities of suspected "hot" tuna after 23 fishermen reported they were burned by radioactive ashes of the March 1 test blast.

East Pakistan's New Government Bans Communists
DACCAs, East Pakistan (AP)—East Pakistan's new state government today outlawed the Communist party. The Reds had supported the ousted administration of former chief minister Abdul Kasem Fazul Huq. An official announcement said the party, its committees, sub-committees and all branches would be considered illegal in East Pakistan. It added the government was convinced the organization was a danger to public peace. The Communists held 40 seats in the provincial assembly elected March 8-12. They were a part of Fazul Huq's five-party United Front coalition that snatched power from Prime Minister Mohammed Ali's Moslem League party in the state voting. Fazul Huq and his ministerial colleagues were dismissed by the central government May 30 as bitter differences between the divided sections of Pakistan came to a head. IRISH GOLFER SETS COURSE RECORD IN OPEN

SOUTHPORT, Eng. (AP)—John McGonigle of Ireland set a record for professionals on the Hillside course today by shooting a 65 in the qualifying round for the British open golf championship.

McGonigle fired a three-under-par 33 on the outgoing nine and came in with a four-under-par 32 on the par 70 course.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, equalled the amateur record for the course with a 34-35-69 qualifying round. The previous 69 was shot by Dizie Rawlinson of Britain in a country tournament earlier this year.

Scottish professional John Pantone shot a 68 for one of the better qualifying rounds.

Norman Von Nida of Australia, playing on the more difficult Birkdale course, shot a 70.

Bobby Locke of South Africa is favored to win the open. The qualifying rounds are being held today and Tuesday.

Tyees Split With Braves

Victoria 3, 11; Tri-City 4, 4

Victoria Tyees exploded only half their fireworks in the traditional July 4 holiday at Kennewick Sunday as they split a doubleheader with the Tri-City Braves.

Mike Kanshin, going the distance in one of his infrequent starts, pitched a fine six-hitter in the first game, but lost out to Jess Dobner as the Braves scored a 4-3 win.

Tyees cashed in heavily on six Tri-City errors, good for as many unearned runs, to win the second game, 11-4.

On Saturday in Victoria, Tyees ran into too much sparkling pitching by the Wenatchee Chiefs and dropped a pair, 8-3 and 2-1.

Tyees are scheduled to meet Tri-City in another twin bill tonight in the final games of the first-half schedule. They return home Wednesday to meet the Vancouver Capilanos.

In Sunday's first game, the Braves peeked away for single runs in the third and fifth innings. Terry Carroll's sixth-inning homer with a runner aboard provided the margin of victory.

Tyees scored three runs in the seventh but the rally fell short by one run.

PEREZ HOMERS

A two-run homer by Tommy Perez was the big blow for Tyees in the second game although they were helped considerably by the Braves who fell apart defensively and committed six bobbles.

The largest crowd of the season, 2,770, saw the two games.

GRANDSLAM BLOW

On Saturday afternoon, Phil Page was the starter for Victoria and was charged with the loss although he was followed by John Tierney and Joe Nicholas. Tierney gave up a grand slam homer to Dick Stacey in the eighth.

Berlyn Hodges and Charlie Beamon hooked up in a spectacular hill duel in the nightcap but Jake Hulmuth's towering home run shot won the game for Chiefs.

L'il League All-Star Teams To Be Chosen

Officials of the Victoria Little League will meet tonight to select tournament teams from the American and National League to compete in the regional baseball playoffs.

The two teams will meet at Little League Park July 19 to decide the team which will represent the city in zone play-offs.

Ties Feature Cricket; Bays Increase Lead

By TONY BRISTOWE

Until Saturday there had been no drawn games in the Victoria District Cricket League. Then they suddenly became fashionable, as two of the three games played ended inconclusively.

Had the game at Beacon Hill Park been played out, no doubt it would still be going on. As it was a mere six wickets fell in the afternoon, and two of those off the last ball of each innings.

Oak Bay batted first, and all went well until they lost a wicket at 38. Parkins then joined Warren, and the two of them stayed together until the middle of the last-over before tea.

When Warren was bowled, he had then scored 50, and the innings was declared closed at 141 for 2. Parkins being not out 69. This was his best innings of the season.

Hendra and Stanley opened for Albions after tea, and in spite of accurate bowling by Sparks, Oak Bay had to wait until the score was 89 before they had any reward. At this point Hendra was caught by Parkins off Kay for 44, and three runs later Stanley was announced yesterday.

"The New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, 1953 flag winners, both in second place in this season's pennant races, were first with the voting fans. Each placed three players in the lineups which rival managers Casey Stengel of the American League and Walt Alston of the National League must start and use for the first three innings.

Stan Musial, right fielder for the sixth-place St. Louis Cardinals, topped the individual balloting. The six-time National League batting champion polled 1,468,377 votes.

Al Rosen, Cleveland, was second with 1,452,736 votes to nail down the American League first base job, and catcher Yogi Berra of the Yankees was third with 1,449,386.

Centre fielder Mickey Mantle and right fielder Hank Bauer were the other Yankee nominees.

Second baseman Bobby Avila of Cleveland, left fielder Minnie Minoso and shortstop Chico Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox, and third baseman Ray Boone of the Detroit Tigers completed the American League starting lineup.

A Smile in Spite of the Pain

Ross Clements, who Saturday night was the victim of the first major accident at the new Western Speedway, was still in hospital this morning recovering from a possible fracture above the bridge of his nose and a badly lacerated face. There is also a possibility he may lose his right eye. Clements lost control of his car going around the first turn and sheared off a light pole, his head smashing the car's plexiglass windshield. He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by St. John Ambulance. Despite his injuries, Clements was able to greet his wife, left, with a big smile and stated his intentions to return to racing as soon as possible.

Giants, Indians Flout Experts; Lead Majors

The oldest bromide in baseball says, "the team that leads July 4 will win the pennant." It's true most of the time but if Cleveland and the New York Giants follow through to the 1954 world series, the baseball experts' union will have to fold.

Last spring an overwhelming 83 per cent of the writers picked Brooklyn to repeat in the National League. Complacency and old age scared off some of the boys on the New York Yankees. Still, about 70 per cent thought Casey Stengel would make it six straight.

The Yanks and Dodgers are close to the pace, in a good position to make a move in the second half of the season but the Indians and Giants aren't fading.

DOGGERS GAIN

The Giants' lead was trimmed to 3½ games Sunday as they split with Pittsburgh while Brooklyn scored four in the 10th to top Philadelphia 5-3. After Don Liddle pitched the Giants to a 9-2 opening victory, Sid Gordon hit a three-run pinch homer in the eighth-inning of the second game for a 7-6 Pittsburgh triumph.

Cleveland held tight to its 4½ game margin, making it four straight over the White Sox 2-1, with Mike Garcia, Ray Narleski and Early Wynn pitching no-hit ball for 8½ innings. Chicago's only hit was a single by Minnie Minoso with two out in the ninth and he was cut down stealing.

Rookie Bob Grim kept the Yankees in step with the Indians over Washington, his first in the majors. Yogi Berra drove in two runs with a sixth-inning single and Andy Carey doubled to score the other for a 3-0 margin.

ORIOLES CLIMB

Baltimore edged into sixth place in the American, two percentage points ahead of the Philadelphia A's, by downing Detroit 3-1 on Lou Kretlow's five-hitter. Leo Kiely pitched the Boston Red Sox to an 8-0 victory over the A's, scattering eight hits.

Cincinnati moved within a half game of the first division in the National by chasing Milwaukee 4-3 on Jim Greengrass' single with the bases full in a four-run sixth-inning rally. The St. Louis Cardinals split two with Chicago, the Cubs winning the first 4-2 and the Cards taking the second 7-0 with Royce Lint pitching a nine-hit shutout. It was only the third time St. Louis had won in 12 games with Chicago. (See scores page 9.)

All-Star Clubs Named

CHICAGO (UP)—It'll be three Yankees, two Indians, two White Sox, and a Tiger against three Dodgers, two Cardinals, a Giant, a Phillie, and a Redleg in the annual all-star game at Cleveland July 13.

Those were the lineups, except for pitchers, picked by 4,272,470 grandstand managers for the 21st interleague game in final vote tabulations announced yesterday.

"The New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, 1953 flag winners, both in second place in this season's pennant races, were first with the voting fans. Each placed three players in the lineups which rival managers Casey Stengel of the American League and Walt Alston of the National League must start and use for the first three innings.

Germans Go Wild Over Soccer Win

Hungary Upset in Cup Final

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—It was like the world series, a heavyweight championship fight and the Kentucky Derby rolled into one in Germany Sunday.

The occasion was the world championship soccer game in Bern, which the German team won over Hungary in a great upset 3-2.

In Berlin, fans from the Soviet sector drifted over to the western sector and watched the game on television sets in shop windows.

Many taverns in Germany were filled to overflowing and fans jumped on tables and chairs, knocking over beer glasses, to get a better look at the TV sets.

Every West German radio and TV station carried a play-by-play account of the game. The streets virtually were deserted and a Hamburg telephone operator reported she had hardly a call while the game was in progress.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, in a telegram to the victorious team, said: "All Germans take part in your glorious victory with the greatest joy."

It was the first time Germany has won the title. Following the game bars were filled to overflowing and hundreds of revellers danced on the streets.

Germany upset supposedly unbeatable Hungary on a goal by outside right Helmut Rahn with only five minutes remaining in regulation time.

It was a brilliant victory for the Germans, who came from behind to tie the score at 2-2 at the half. In the first round of the 16-country competition, Hungary—unbeaten in four years—had swamped the Germans 8-3.

But at that time the Germans fielded seven reserves, choosing to hold their regulars for vital playoffs. Sunday the Germans were at full strength and combined a sparkling offense that overpowered Hungary's own magnificent style together with a splendid defence. Much of the game was played in rain.

FANS IN FRENZY

Rahn's winning goal sent the thousands of Germans in the crowd of 55,000 roaring crazily. He picked up a pass in the middle, dodged two Hungarians and sent the ball low and hard just inside the goal post.

It was Rahn, too, who tied the score at 2-2 shortly before the half ended. Earlier, he helped score at Germany's first goal scored by Max Morlock, which cut Hungary's lead to 2-1.

Hungarian star Ferenc Puskas, out with an injury since the first-round match against Germany, scored the game's first goal. Then Zoltan Vidor gave Hungary its 2-0 advantage.

FUNDS NEEDED

JBAA Scullers
May Miss
B.E.G. Trials
That old bugbear of sports finances, may keep a Victoria sports organization out of the charge of a lifetime.

James Bay Athletic Association barmen have received an invitation to send their four-man shell crew to the Canadian Henley Regatta and the British Empire Games trials at St. Catharines, Ont., July 10.

However, the polished and hard-working crew will need a minimum of $1,100 to make the trip. By canvass of business firms and straight donations, club members have collected half that sum but appear to be up against a brick wall as far as securing the balance.

Hard-working coach Norm Edwards, who drills his crew every morning and night, is optimistic about the chances of his team in the trials. However, he feels that the sum necessary is too great to be covered by donations from Victoria citizens.

It appears that the weeks of hard work put in by the oarsmen will be of no avail unless the money is raised quickly.

Anyone who is interested in helping the rowers financially can do so by contacting club president Brian Palin at 619 Oliver Street.

Richards Wins Decathlon Crown

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Rev. Bob Richards won his second annual U.S. AAU decathlon championship Saturday, soaring to a world decathlon record of 15 feet in the pole vault.

The 28-year-old Olympic and national pole vaulting king broke his own decathlon vault record of 14 feet, 11½ inches. He wound up with 6,500 points, better than the 6,456 he amassed last year when he finished second to Milt Campbell.

Campbell did not defend his crown because of an elbow injury.

MAJOR SPITTAL PACES CANADIAN RIFLE TRIUMPH

BISLEY, Eng. (CP)—Canada's Bisley team, led by Major Spittal of Victoria, Sunday defeated a North London Rifle Club 945 to 934 in an unofficial match which traditionally precedes the Bisley tournament.

It was the eighth victory for Canada in 19 peacetime shoots. The unofficial pre-Bisley matches were inaugurated in 1929.

Spittal, at 55 the oldest member of the Canadian team, fired 86 out of 100 in difficult weather conditions.

Capt. Don White of Pine Falls, Man., who fired a 76, said visibility was poor and the wind strong enough to push rifles out of line.

The Bisley shoot starts July 12.

Fletchers Sneak Into Ball Lead

Harlem Clowns 5, Arrows 1; Fletchers 6, Duncan 4
All the softball fans were in Central Park Sunday, but all the news was made at Duncan.

While Arrows were engaged in an exhibition contest with the Harlem Clowns before a crowd of 3,000, Fletchers journeyed out to Duncan to play the up-Islanders in a regularly scheduled game. And the clothiers made hay while the sun shone and took over first place in the Senior A Men's Softball League by breaking out of a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning with a two-run pinch-hit double by Tim Walker.

Walker's blow came with the bases loaded and provided the winning runs in Fletchers' 6-4 victory.

Fletcher's now hold a two-point lead over Arrows and United Services with Chinese Students in third place, four points off the pace.

In the game at Duncan Fletchers scored four times in the first inning without the aid of a hit.

Duncan got two back in their half of the inning and tied up the game in the bottom of the third when Lou Sheeran homered and Len Smith and Dennis Stubbs singled.

Meanwhile, at Central Park over the week-end Harlem Clowns put up a great series, winning two games, while losing one.

On Saturday afternoon, after being delayed on the way to the park, the visitors were no match for George Kinch of United Services, who shut them out 2-0.

Saturday night the Clowns evened their series with a 3-1 win over Chinese Students. Sunday afternoon before a tremendous crowd that circled the field and crammed the stands, the Clowns put on a good show to defeat Arrow Furniture 5-1.

Farmers Take Second In Island Ball Tourney

By RON COULTER

Powerful Farmer Construction failed in their bid for top honors Sunday in the annual four-day $1,000 Courtney July 1 Island amateur baseball tournament.

As it was, Courtney Legion took advantage of five Farmers' errors and scored two runs in each the fourth and ninth innings to down Farmers, 4-2, in the final game.

Legion took first prize of $600, while Farmers captured second money of $200 and Comox Tigers and Campbell River each won $100.

Lefthander Bob McIver went the distance on the mound for Legion in the final and, although giving up 10 hits, escaped disaster several times as his team played errorless ball.

Norm Forbes made his first start on the Island this season for Farmers and turned in a creditable chore, allowing eight hits, six walks and striking out eight. Only one Courtney run was earned.

In first-round tourney action, Legion edged Parkville, 5-4. Comox Tigers downed Nanaimo, 5-2; Campbell River, Comox blanked Chemainus, 8-0, and Farmers trounced Powell River, 15-6.

Farmers then whipped Campbell River, 11-4, to gain a final berth and Legion whitewashed Comox, 4-0, to advance.

Bill Garner came on in relief in the first two Farmers' games and showed well. He replaced starter Don Donahue in the first contest and took over from Lowell Hodges in the second.

Harford Clubs Ball. Farmers' catcher Jim Harford was the individual star of the tourney and somehow miraculously escaped being named most valuable player, McIver taking that honor on the strength of his pitching performance in the final.

Harford cracked out 11 hits in 15 times at bat, including one triple and a double. He injured his leg in the second game but continued to play.

Two other local players captured individual prizes. Charlie Boyd had the most extra base hits—three triples, and Lyle Cornett drove in seven runs, high for the tourney. Cornett also had three extra base hits, two triples and one double.

High Gun Wins Dwyer

NEW YORK (AP)—High Gun displayed the class necessary for a three-year-old champion Saturday when he outbattled Palm Tree down the stretch to capture the $37,400 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct.

High Gun won by a head and a neck over second-place Palm Tree.

The 33-year-old gelding denominated Meadowbrook's par 71 with rounds of 72-68-70-68—278, six under par. It gave him a two-stroke edge over Gene Littler, the promising newcomer from Palm Springs, Calif., veteran Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., and Tommy Bolt-Houston, Tex.

Littler and Furgol topped Middlecoff's 68 with a pair of hot 67s, but the doctor's steady ness in the four-day tournament was the turning point.

Middlecoff picked up first prize of $3,000. He shared the same title with Lloyd Mangrum in 1949 and won it outright in 1952.

Flo Fresh as Daisy After 5½-Hour Swim

By DENNY BOYD

Florence Chadwick went on short rations Sunday as she stepped up the pace of training for her $10,000 Bacpo-Times swim from Victoria to Port Angeles in m's August.

Switching the scene of her practice swim from Cadboro Bay to Prospect Lake for one day, Miss Chadwick swam for five and one-half hours without leaving the water and was fed while in the water.

Coach Archie McKinnon estimated Miss Chadwick covered between 10 and 12 miles during the lengthy swim and reported she was "as fresh as a new daisy" when she emerged from the lake.

The swim was held at Prospect Lake to give Miss Chadwick the opportunity of having a long session in the water, although she is not yet ready for such long immersions in the cold water in Cadboro Bay. The water temperature in the lake was 64 degrees Sunday, while it has averaged about 14-15 degrees colder in Cadboro Bay.

At the end of the first two miles of Sunday's swim, Miss Chadwick was fed two energy-providing sugar biscuits. She had one more after completing four miles and two more biscuits, in addition to a small drink of soda pop, after six miles. She ate three more biscuits when she completed eight miles of her swim.

The five and one-half-hour swim was mapped out from one end of the lake to the other, rather than following the contours of the lake. Summer residents of the lake thronged the shoreline to watch Miss Chadwick.

McKinnon gave Miss Chadwick a holiday this morning but had a two-hour swim in Cadboro Bay scheduled for this afternoon at 3.

Hey! Who's the Champ Here?

Personable Florence Chadwick and Jack Todd, one of the coaches in her $10,000 Bacpo-Times swim, were members of a mutual admiration society Sunday at Prospect Lake. Todd thought that Miss Chadwick was the lady of the hour as she had just completed a 12-mile, five-and-a-half-hour practice swim and still looked as if she had just stepped out of a fashion magazine. Miss Chadwick raised Todd's hand aloft, pointing out that he was the champion door prize winner of all times. Having rowed around Cadboro Bay last week, accompanying Miss Chadwick on her practice dips, Todd was joyful indeed when he learned he had won an outboard runabout boat as the door prize in the Gyro hole-in-one contest.

The vote was 2,711 in favor of taverns, against 2,222 "no" votes. This showed that 54.95 per cent of the voters were in favor of beer parlors, just under a 55 per cent majority required to approve this liquor outlet.

All other liquor outlets were approved by ratepayers. The vote is as follows: dining-room license, 3,210 "yes," 1,683 "no"; dining lounges, 3,070 "yes," 1,751 "no"; and cocktail bars, 3,016 "yes," and 1,787 "no."

CPR's Mapledell Here for Last Time

On her last appearance in B.C. coast waters, the 10,000-ton CPR freighter, Ss. Mapledell, left at Ogden Point today.

Her departure later this week with a cargo of lumber for UK will mark the end of her owners' attempt to revive the once-lucrative Canada-Orient shipping trade. Cargo offerings did not live up to operating expenses.

Mapledell and her sister ship, Maple Cove, were transferred from the CPR's Atlantic run to the Pacific in August, 1952, and operated a monthly trans-Pacific service. At the time, CPR officials stated the service was on a trial basis and would be continued if profitable.

Mapledell first docked in Victoria on Nov. 24, 1952, her main discharge here being Japanese oranges for the Christmas trade. Since then, the two Maple ships have made rare appearances here, as cargo shipments for this port were small.

The "Maples" were formerly known as Beaverdell and Beaver Cove. The names were changed because there is no equivalent Japanese or Chinese word for Beaver.

TODAY'S GARDEN HINT

These 10 Mistakes Will Ruin Any Garden

1. Making too large a garden. A small plot, prepared and cared for properly will yield more than a large unkempt garden.
2. Starting too early. Seeds germinate when conditions are right. Late sowings in warm soil will overtake early sowings made under poor conditions.
3. Poor soil preparation. Stones, pernicious weeds, and left-in roots make upkeep difficult.
4. Insufficient plant food. The lighter the soil the less plant food it will retain. A general fertilizer when preparing the ground assures better results.
5. Planting too close. The better the growth the more room needed. The more room, the better the growth.
6. Dwindling interest as the season progresses. A producing garden needs attention every day. It has no mid-summer holidays.
7. Pat-a-cake watering. It's fun to squirt water around, but it ruins the plants. Water long and well.
8. Lack of succession. Nothing but beans, then nothing but cabbage. Sow less, more often.
9. Giving pests a start. Pests and diseases are controlled by forethought, not afterthought.
10. Buying cheap seeds, plants, and tools. Good seeds and plants require less care, are less trouble, and give better results. Good tools make working pleasant and easier.

Education Minister Ray Williston welcomed teachers at opening today.

LADY LUCK NUZZLES TODD AT CARNIVAL

Tried Hard---But Couldn't Lose

Jack H. Todd, Newport Avenue, won the Peterborough boat and 5½ horsepower engine at the Gyro Carnival Saturday night—after he had done his best to give his tickets away.

Todd, who is acting as assistant trainer for Florence Chadwick in her Bacpo-Times swim attempt to Port Angeles next month, had already bought tickets in the names of his wife, famed local golfer Margaret Todd, and three boys.

Saturday night he bought six tickets for the hole-in-one contest, worth $1, and walked away from the booth without declaring his name.

The woman selling the tickets called him back, asking his address for the stubs. "I've already filled in two," she said.

"All right," said Todd, "just throw the others into the pot."

One of the pair entered in his name was the lucky ticket.

The second boat was won jointly by Oak Bay golf professional Phil Taylor and Russell Cole of 400 Cudthul, who both shot holes-in-one at the carnival.

They decided to sell the boat, worth $690, for $500. Taylor sold it to one of his club-members on Sunday and will split the proceeds with Cole.

OTHER WINNERS

Two neighbors shared top place during the daily golf contest Saturday. Lloyd Murray, 3848 Carey Road, picked up a $25 first prize with a shot one-inch from the pin, and Bernard Johnson, 4142 Carey Road, came second with a shot four inches from the cup.

Grocery hamper winners were: Mrs. Irene Fraser, M. H. Garner, Mrs. J. Chisholm, and J. Enge.

Loot of $600 In C. Saanich

Daylight burglars who broke into the home of H. A. Noakes at Island View Beach on the week-end escaped with loot valued at close to $600, Central Saanich police reported today.

Police said entry was gained through a basement window. Jewelry, a quantity of clothing and a small radio were stolen.

RCMP of the Sidney detachment are assisting Central Saanich police in the investigation.

Greater Victoria police forces reported little thieving activity during the week-end.

Two city premises were broken into. Saanich Lumber Yards Ltd., 3041-B Douglas, netted thieves two rolls of pennies, a few packages of cigarettes, keys, four ball-point pens and six chocolate bars. The adjoining Tyee Boat Rental premises yielded only 40 cents in coppers.

Westcoast Official Calls on Premier

Westcoast Transmission Co. vice-president Frank McMahon held his first conference with Premier W. A. C. Bennett today since June 18, when his firm was denied the right to sell Peace River natural gas to the Pacific Northwest U.S.

Westcoast officials have indicated they are planning a new attempt to gain markets for the Peace River gas, and one official said an announcement is possible within two weeks.

$100,000 Loan Fund Open to Rural Students

Education Minister Ray Williston today unveiled a plan for encouraging rural-area youth to enter the teaching profession by providing them with interest-free loans.

The $100,000 revolving loan fund will be made available to young men and women from rural areas to assist them during the course of their training, either at the University of Normal School level.

Mr. Williston said his department had taken a survey of such students, "and found a great number of young people who would go to Normal School if it was financially possible for them to do so."

The fund, available on application of the individual, will be issued on a basis of school record, distance from Vancouver and Victoria metropolitan areas, and will be contingent on the student returning to rural areas of the province to teach until their loan is repaid.

THREE YEARS TO REPAY

A maximum of three years will be allowed for repayment, with loan of $900 a year during the course of training.

At present, one year at Normal School is necessary for entrance in the teaching profession in primary and intermediate grades, but this must be bolstered by two years of summer school.

Secondary teachers require a one-year UBC course after obtaining their BA degree. Mr. Williston indicated a more specialized BA course, designed for those who intend teaching, is being considered by the government.

He said that the course would not be shortened, "because we are going to go the other way, to lift the standard of teacher training."

First students to enter Normal School under the loan-plan will be sought for the fall term. Applications are to be made to Dr. Henry Johnston, co-ordinator of teacher training, department of education, and director of the Summer School for teachers which opened here today.

The education minister said that B.C. would have to provide 1,400 new teachers a year to fill provincial classrooms, while this year normal schools at Vancouver and Victoria graduated only 550. "The slack is taken up by teachers from other provinces, older and married teachers coming out of retirement, and exchange teachers from other countries."

Mr. Williston also said that because of the existing teacher shortage in the province, unqualified teachers have been moved up to higher classifications, "and we haven't been able to maintain our standards."

FIRST OF ITS KIND

The loan plan, designed to offset this shortage to some extent, is the first known program of its kind in Canada.

Mr. Williston said the government does not intend cutting out normal school fees as an inducement to potential teachers, because "We want to increase the prestige and standard of the teaching profession, and not to cheapen it."

He said the average teacher's initial salary is $2,300 a year, which would enable them to pay back the provincial loan without difficulty.

B.C. Hotels Given Dining Lounge Okay

Liquor Commissioner Col. D. McGugan today announced granting of a dining lounge license to the Empress Hotel, for its Crystal Ballroom.

The license will permit the hotel to serve cocktails, beers and wines with meals in the ballroom. Empress manager Thomas Chester said plans for the operation are now being completed.

"We expect to make an announcement concerning our opening date within the next few days," he said.

Col. McGugan also announced the Vancouver Hotel has been granted a dining lounge license for its banquet and salon room; the Sylvia Hotel, Vancouver, has been issued a dining lounge license, and 17 military messes, including several at Naden, have been issued licenses.

Condition of four-year-old Kejo Isomaa, 415 Wilson, who suffered head injuries in a fall from a porch early Saturday afternoon, was reported as "good" in St. Joseph's Hospital this morning.

Kejo, son of G. Isomaa, was rushed to St. Joseph's emergency by police.

William McKay, 315 Montreal, was fined $5 for driving the wrong way on a one-way street and Ray Le Forest Green, 220 Linden, paid a $20 fine for speeding on Cook Street when they appeared in city court today.

DROODLES

(See title below)

Some people claim that Doodles appeal only to 12-year-old mentalities. These people are typical of the Trouble Makers and Wrong Thinkers who are jealous of me. I tried the above Doodle on a 12-year-old and it didn't appeal to him. He said he thought I was "nutty" and "coo-ko." I had to go to a child of 6 before I got any real appreciation. (As regards the impertinent 12-year-old you can bet I gave him a piece of my mind. It would've gone worse with him if he hadn't of been wearing glasses. And if he hadn't of been stronger than I was. Even so he still had to call on a friend in order to throw me out of the school yard as I am a lot more wily than I look.)

A Victoria man, Alfred Marty, was sentenced to four months in Oakalla prison after he pleaded guilty in city court today to a morals charge.

Arthur Mooney, HMCS Naden, was injured Sunday when his parked car was struck by another vehicle at Beacon Hill Park.

He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for facial lacerations, but his condition is not considered serious.

Police were told a late model grey car, with four youths in it, came up behind the parked car and pushed it at high speed into a group of three trees, then sped away.

The first German ship in liner service to visit the Pacific Northwest since before the Second World War is expected in B.C. waters next month.

She is Ss. Lahnstein, in the joint service of the Hamburg-American Line and North-German Lloyd. Northwest ports of call will be Seattle and Vancouver.

She is not expected to berth at Victoria, and exact date for her arrival has not been announced.

City Council is expected to deal with at least 20 requests for charitable grants at its next regular meeting, Thursday at 2. Council had intended to hold a special meeting to deal with grants but no such meeting was called.

Organizations seeking city help are asking for more than $40,000. Council, which earlier in the year set aside $25,000 for charitable and other purposes, has already allotted $6,400, leaving only $18,600 in the fund.

This Dartmouth Pottery Ties In With City's Slogan

By PENNY SAVER

Today I'll start off with something I'm really quite excited about. It's striking "follow the birds to Victoria" pottery. Made in Dartmouth, this English pottery is of a warm rusty color, painted over in sky blue with grey and white seagulls flying and perching on rocks. . . really quite unusual! Examples of the prices are ash trays, $1; mugs, $2.50; egg cups, $1.25; small plate, $1.05; large plate, $1.65; small cream and sugar set, $2; large sugar bowl, $1.25; large creamer, $1.50. But you like 'em!

I've been looking around Victoria to see if I could find any of those new "Pesanto" or "Italian" blouses. . . so popular right now in the United States. Haven't seen any yet, but, then, I haven't looked in all the stores.

Let me tell you about them. They are definitely for sports wear and are cut long, with men's style shirt tails so they look okay when worn outside your slacks. The collar is the thing to look for, though. It is very plain and pointed, but buttons just under the point of either side. That is, the front section of the blouse buttons to the yoke, right under the collar. The blouses come in cottons mostly. . . and in bright colors.

American girls are going all out for those straw or wicker basket-style purses. All shapes and sizes are seen and all colors. However, the favorite seems to be white.

This year the baskets are decked with fruits, rather than flowers. Great clusters of red cherries or bunches of mixed fruits are popular. The fish basket style is ornamented with seashells, some are left in natural pink and brown colors, but many are painted in bright and vivid hues. The shells are glued firmly to the lids of the baskets. Basket style purses can be purchased from $1.98.

Another new "fad" that I've not yet detected in Canada is the wearing of sunglasses that permit the owner to look out, but do not allow others to look in. In other words, a gal wearing these can't flash her pretty eyes at her boy friend, because all he can see where the glass should be are a couple of mirrors. It's the most fascinating thing! The glasses are most useful, because when a gal wants to renew her lipstick, she has but to take off her glasses and use them for a mirror. Price is about 98 cents.

The popularity of linen in summer dresses has led to the idea of having glass cases of linen to match each dress. In the U.S. you can buy cases for your glasses in almost any color linen. Though we can't buy them here, we could make use of the idea by covering old cases with scraps of linen from the latest dress.

Mary Evelyn Yole Is Bride In Ceremony at St. Mark's

A floor length gown of French embroidered nylon tulle over nylon taffeta and an iridescent star-sprinkled veil of illusion net formed the lovely bride's ensemble of Mary Evelyn Yole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Yole, 58 Cadillac Avenue, when she was united in marriage with Kenneth Louis Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Talbot, 1820 Adanac Street. Her gown was fashioned with full skirt and yoke of nylon net edged with rosettes. A pearl tiara caught the veil to her head and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and swansons.

The ceremony took place in St. Mark's Anglican Church with Canon Robert Willis officiating. Baskets of red and white roses were placed at chancel and altar, and pews were marked with lily of the valley and white rosebuds. Wedding music was played on the organ by Mrs. R. Willis and Miss Shirley Main sang "O Perfect Love" during signing of the register. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Elizabeth Yole was maid of honor for her sister. Her gown was of pale blue net over taffeta and she wore a matching headpiece and carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Edward Whyte, bridesmatron, and Miss Noreen Talbot, bridesmaid, wore identical gowns of mauve net over taffeta, with matching headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of yellow and white carnations. Matthew W. Yole, brother of the bride was best man and ushers were Edward Whyte and Jack Green.

A reception was held at McEwan's restaurant where mothers of the couple assisted in receiving. Mrs. Yole wearing a dusty rose crepe and lace dress with white accessories and corsage of yellow rosebuds and Mrs. Talbot in gray linen dress with mauve accessories and pink rosebud corsage.

A three tier cake topped with a pair of white doves and surrounded with pink roses and tulle centred the table. Piano selections were played by Wilfred Yole, Henry Yole acted as master of ceremonies and a toast to the bride was proposed by David Fisher.

Out of town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. L. Talbot, Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fisher, Ladysmith, Miss Elizabeth Yole, Trenton, Ont., and Mr. W. Yole, Forest St. John, B.C.

For a motor trip to Portland, Mrs. Matthews donned a navy blue tricot suit, a powder blue shortie coat and white accessories with a corsage of gardenias. Upon return, the young couple will make their home at 3203 Doncaster Drive.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Last night I kissed my mother goodnight, took a deep breath and said, "You smell wonderful but then you always do."

My mother is always cold-creamed to the hilt when we kiss her goodnight. For that reason she always puts perfume on the top of her head so that it will be a special treat when we kiss her on the only spot which is cream free.

"I could make myself even sweeter by using the perfume you gave me for my birthday," she replied. This is an expensive brand which neither mother nor I normally would have.

I asked, "Have you used any of it yet?" Mother said, "Not tonight."

"Have you used any of it at all?" I pressed her for an answer. She had not. I do not believe in this sort of thing and mother knows it. That is why she said, "Not tonight" instead of telling the truth in the first place.

Why save everything luxurious, everything you especially enjoy, for a special day? Every day is a special day. We continued talking and I mentioned family silver. I had written a column about this not long ago. Often sterling silver is seldom used or enjoyed except on "special occasions," but is saved for the next generation. The next generation does the same thing and no one ever gets any pleasure out of having it.

My darling mother said, "We don't do that with our silver, do we, Jo?" "Nope," said I. "Much of the silver I have and that you have given me is scratched up, some of it has been lost in children's sand piles while more has disappeared when teenagers decided to eat while driving about." I do not mean to Enjoy Fine Things Today; Why Wait for Tomorrow?

Why save everything luxurious, such as your best perfume, for a special day?

indicate that I really approve of this latter but if I had to choose one extreme or the other, I would choose it.

Waiting for "sometime," saving everything good for the future, seems a dreary attitude to me.

Today is all we can count on. I am not a pessimist. To the contrary I believe that I will have many more happy years on this orb and hope that you will, also.

But what bonus is there in saving everything you really want to do and every little luxury you especially enjoy for tomorrow? What's wrong with today? I would dump the whole expensive bottle of perfume on me today except that it would be overwhelming to me and to others.

High School Boy Avoids Meeting Girl's Family

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When the boy does not want to meet the family of the girl he dates, she will be wise to watch her step. A girl writes:

(Q) "I am just finishing my junior year in high school and am very much in love with a boy in my class. I have been seeing him a lot at school all year, but now that summer vacation has started I won't see him so often. He usually goes to the school 'hangout,' a drug store, after school and always comes over and talks to me. I also see him at the school parties and have met him at the movies several times when he asked me to go with him. I have suggested several times that he drop in and meet my folks, but he always has an excuse. When he has taken me out, he never comes for me or takes me home. He never really seemed shy, so I don't understand it. What should I do?"

(A) First, you should try to find out why he does not want to come to your home. He may really be shy. Does he seem to lack social know-how, or does he seem like the type of boy who likes to have a good time with the girls and avoid any contacts with their parents that might put him in an embarrassing position?

Try to arrange a meeting with your family that will be both casual and lacking in any possible source of embarrassment for him. If you like him as much as you say you do, it would be a very wise idea to have your parents' opinion about him and let them know what sort of boy you are going with.

If, on the other hand, it becomes obvious that he is a play-boy who does not want to become involved in any way with the girl's family, then I suggest that you allow this infatuation to die out during the summer. If you make no effort to see him when school is out, the chances are that you won't meet. By the beginning of the fall term you will see the matter in a new light and will be ready to form friendships with boys who are more worthwhile.

Decorating Home Tough on Women; Can Result in Case of Nerves

NEW YORK (AP) — The strain of decorating the home can make some women neurotic or, more plainly, bawdy, says Dr. Milton B. Sapirstein, New York psychiatrist.

The job seems in many ways to be as tough on some women's nerves as war is on men's, and it's a rare woman who has no minor crisis from it, he says.

Decorating of the home seems to be one of the greatest challenges to a woman's femininity, he told the American Psycho-analytic Association.

It can involve many conflicts and aspects of her personality. The stresses and strains may revive old neurotic conflicts and trigger off upsets ranging from mild anxiety to full-fledged schizophrenic breakdowns.

"A MORTAL ENEMY" Dr. Sapirstein writes: "All of a woman's problems in relation to her sexual acceptance of herself may become reflected in the process of setting up a home."

Whether she should decorate in straight or rounded lines, antiques or modern furniture, can involve her own attitude toward herself, her ways of dress, her own curves or lack of them, whether she's old fashioned or modern herself.

And she may become involved in the decorating process with feminine-type men or aggressive women who add to her problems, or encounter "an assortment of paranoid workmen such as house painters who look upon every woman as a mortal enemy."

If her mother is helping her, there may be a boiling up of some old, buried antagonisms between mother and daughter. She's spending a lot of money, so she may worry about that and be plunged into financial quarrels with her husband.

DECORATING IS KEY

Her problems may impel her to take out some of her feelings upon her husband, accusing him of being indifferent about how the home looks, being too stingy or too practical, or lacking cultural appreciation, Dr. Sapirstein adds.

If the husband tries to meet such criticisms by taking a more active part in the decorating problem, he may be accused of being domineering. That can precipitate a quarrel, and decorating becomes a home-wrecking rather than home-building project.

Decorating is a challenge to a woman's creativity, especially if she is proud of her artistic talents, Dr. Sapirstein says. She realizes everyone is expecting a lot of her, and that other women may relish any mistakes she makes. Some women therefore never quite finish decorating their homes, or else do the job all over again every few years.

The fireplace of Sooke Harbor House was banked with colorful summer flowers for a recent wedding ceremony which united Shirley Doreen Talbot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Talbot, China Creek, B.C., with William James Vowles, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vowles, Sooke. Rev. R. Lytle officiated.

As the couple signed the register, "All Joy Be Thine" was sung by Mrs. Myrtle Piercy. Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Ralph Pontious.

Groom's Uncle Performs Wedding

Wedding ceremony which united Margaret Rose South with Brian Raymond de Montmorency, Saturday evening, was performed by the uncle of the groom, Rev. R. Haddon of Fort William, Ont. Roses and stocks decorated St. Martin's-in-the-Field Church for the wedding of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. South, 2887 Austin Avenue, and the son of Mrs. M. de Montmorency, 646 Simcoe Street. Organ music was played by Mrs. M. Graves. A blue worsted tailored suit was worn by the bride, given in marriage by her father. She chose white accessories.

Murphy-Bechtel Ceremony In St. Mary's Church

Patricia May Bechtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bechtel, exchanged wedding vows with Arthur Desmond Murphy, son of Mrs. C. Murphy, Ottawa, Ont., in a ceremony in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, Saturday evening. The church was decorated with white shasta daisies for the ceremony, performed by Archdeacon A. E. del. Nunn.

White embroidered nylon over white taffeta fashioned the gowns chosen by the lovely bride. The bodice featured a V-neckline front and back and short puffed sleeves, while the graceful skirt fell to waist-length. She wore a Juliet cap of white daisies, and carried a white prayer book topped with sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. M. Hillman of Vancouver, whose waist-length gown was of pink tissue taffeta. She wore hat and shoes to match, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and gladioli.

Mr. Jack Robertson was best man, and Mr. Larry Hillman ushered.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake which centred a table decorated with pink roses and silver candelabra. Mr. W. J. McAlpin proposed the bridal toast.

For a honeymoon on the Island and travelling to Ottawa, Mrs. Murphy wore a brown flannel suit and cobra accessories.

The couple will live in St. George, New Brunswick.

Reception for relatives and friends was also held at Sooke Harbour House. E. J. Eve proposed the toast to the bride.

An accordion-pleated dress of green and white nylon was worn by mother of the bride. Mother of the groom chose a pale green silk dress, and both wore corsages of pink carnations.

Pink roses and violets were arranged the full length of the bride's table which was centred by a three-tier wedding cake.

For traveling up-Island and in the interior on honeymoon, the bride wore a grey gabardine coat over her wedding dress. Mr. and Mrs. Vowles will live at Sooke.

Bingo party at home of senior regent Mrs. G. Crooks, 1015 Empress Avenue, Tuesday at 8 p.m., auspices of Chapter 25, Women of the Moose. Proceeds in aid of children's picnic.

'Hash', Says The Kremlin
LONDON (Reuters)—Dr. Alfred Kinsey, American author of the controversial "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female," has shocked the Kremlin.

A copy of his book which penetrated the Iron Curtain has resulted in a long and savage indictment in a learned journal for Soviet philosophers.

The conclusion of philosopher D. Y. Leonov is that the Kinsey book is "nothing but the cheapest kind of pornographic hash, clumsily disguised as science." The book, he declares, "gloats over sexual perversions."

Leonov added: "The chief difference between Kinsey and the pornographic novelists of the type of Mickey Spillane and Henry Miller, and the anonymous authors of the 'comics' and so on, lies in the fact that Kinsey raises pornography to the level of a science."

Tears Flow as Greek Family Ends Seven-Year Separation

QUEBEC (CP)—Tears flowed freely today when four Greek children were reunited with their parents after seven long, lonely years of separation.

"At last," cried their short, swarthy father, Theofilos Likopoulos of Toronto, "I have my children." Their mother was speechless as she hugged the three girls and one boy who became separated from their parents in 1947 political unrest in the little fishing village of Psaron, Greece. The reunion was on the deck of the liner Scythia.

Donka, 16, Dimitrios, 14, and Fotini, 12, had been living in Hungary in Red Cross care. Their parents emigrated to Toronto in 1949, hoping that some day they would earn enough money to arrange for the repatriation of their children.

Mr. Likopoulos, a fisherman back in Greece, could not speak English when he arrived in Toronto and it took all of his $30-a-week salary as a dishwasher to support his wife.

In 1952, he decided to consult Alex Kaye, a lawyer, who later got in touch with the Canadian Red Cross Society during the 18th annual international Red Cross conference at Toronto that year.

At the conference Dr. W. S. Stanbury, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society, discussed the case with Rumanian and Hungarian Red Cross officials and began two years of negotiations which ended successfully this morning when the four children were reunited with their parents.

"I have a six-room house," said Mr. Likopoulos through an interpreter, "and I think I can afford to send my three girls to school this year."

Dimitrios would take a job to supplement Mr. Likopoulos' weekly salary and go to night school, said the father.

Little Nina was almost a stranger to her parents. She had been displaced when only one year old, shortly after her two sisters and brother left Greece.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser
Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest
Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only... Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

STAMPEDE STARTS TODAY

Calgary Rarin' Goes Old West

CALGARY (CP)—Old Fort Calgary was never like this. Mock feed stalls line the curbs of Eighth Avenue, flap-jack stands are set up on street corners, horses will probably be tethered to parking meters and everybody who wants to fit in with this awkwardly luxurious wild west decor will wear jeans and cowboy shirts.

All for stampepe week, an annual six-day fever which draws almost a half-million visitors whose names and some far-away addresses cram every hotel registry in town.

It was scheduled to start today with a mammoth parade of 27 bands at 75-foot intervals, red-coated mounties, mounted cowboys, Indians, servicemen, flag-bearers, chuckwagons, social and recreational exhibits.

Perched on one of the floats will be the Stampede's first Indian girl to be crowned queen. She's really a princess, Evelyn Eagle-Speaker, Princess Wapiti of the Blood tribe. Her coronation will take place Tuesday, and she'll reign for a week.

The parade will pass through the centre of the city, then wind its way to the palisaded exhibition grounds to start the week of brane riding, bull and wild steer decorating, calf roping, wild cow milking matches, spectacular chuckwagon races, grandstand shows, a midway, fireworks and horse racing.

Last year's attendance was 451,837. In 1922, the first year records were kept, it was 97,731. Every year it goes higher, except in the lean

Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi!

This might be a good time for all the men to turn to the sports pages and check the week end baseball scores.

I want to talk to the ladies for a while and answer a few of the questions that I hear most, while I am traveling.

A lot of women I meet, even before they ask if I can swim the Strait, ask how I keep my complexion smooth with all that constant immersion in salt water and exposure to the wind and sun.

Believe me, I have given a lot of study to this problem and I have a definite procedure I follow to protect not only my skin but also my eyes and hair.

First of all, before I enter the water for practical swims I cover my face with a thick coating of liquid make-up. This gives me almost perfect protection against water, wind and sun.

Two years ago, when I was in England training for my Channel swim, there were a lot of young boys training with me. Some of them had fair complexions and they suffered terribly until I gave them some of my make-up. They were embarrassed using it but it did the trick for them.

I use lots of water-proof lipstick to keep my lips from cracking and have found that the Hazel Bishop brand is the most effective.

I wear goggles all the time I am in the water but to be doubly certain of full protection for my eyes, I put Murine in them as soon as I come out of the water.

All my swimming requires me to keep my hair cut short. I wash it every two days thoroughly to keep the salt out and fortunately I have quite a bit of natural curl in it.

During my practice swims, I have not been using body grease but when I do it will be composed of Lanolin.

We had a wonderful day Sunday, swimming in Prospect Lake at the home of Jack and Marg Todd. I swam for five and one-half hours and the workout felt great, especially when we sat down to huge charcoal-broiled steaks for dinner. We kidded the life out of Jack for winning that new boat. Jack and young Andy Kerr came swimming with me and the five and one-half hours seemed to pass in no time. I am feeling stronger every day—and am ready to tackle more of that Cadboro Bay water.

Flo's Training Speeds Swim Estimate Game

The game of calculating how long Florence Chadwick will take in the Bapco-Times swim to Port Angeles, or how long she will remain in the water, has taken on added zest since Miss Chadwick began her training last week.

Flo has spent periods up to an hour and a half in the cold waters of Cadboro Bay. Sunday she put in more than five hours doing an 11-mile swim in Prospect Lake to lengthen her endurance training.

These factors alone have demonstrated that whether or not she can make the full 18.3-mile grind to Port Angeles, she will certainly cover a good part of the distance, barring accidents. This has raised the sights of people entering the calculating contest. Estimates are running

Foods, Rents Jump Sharply

Living Cost Rise of .6 Point
Biggest Increase in 2½ Years

OTTAWA (CP)—A sudden, sharp jump in food prices combined with higher rents boosted the consumer price index by three-fifths of a point in May, to 116.1 from 115.5. It was the biggest rise in 30 months.

The increase was due almost entirely to higher prices for meats, coffee, fresh vegetables and fresh and canned fruit, the bureau of statistics reported today. Butter and chicken prices were lower.

Rents also climbed along with such other items as cleaning supplies and furniture. Counting some of these latter increases were lower prices for nylon hosiery, some other clothing items, electrical appliances, cotton sheets and garbage cans. Coal prices made their usual summer seasonal decline.

The consumer price index, yardstick for measuring living costs, is based on 1949 prices equalling 100. The climb during May was biggest since the advance of four-fifths of a point in October, 1951. The index peak was 118.2 reached in December, 1951.

REVERSED TREND

With the exception of a tiny one-tenth of a point rise in March, the index generally had been declining in the early months of 1954 as weakening food prices cut living costs.

The May climb pushes back the index almost to the October, 1953, level when it stood at 116.2. There were only three big rises in 1953, each of one-half point and just a shade below the May, 1954, rise of three-fifths of a point.

Dominion Day Week-End Sees 76 Lose Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 76 persons died in accidents in Canada during the long Dominion Day holiday week-end.

The toll was one of the heaviest on record for a week-end celebration. Dominion Day last year fell in the middle of the week and on that one-day holiday 15 violent deaths were reported.

In Edmonton police continued investigations today into Alberta's worst highway crash, a baffling head-on collision which claimed five lives Saturday.

Killed were Mrs. Jan Wilhelm Grijzen; her six-year-old son Hendrik and daughter Matilda, three; Herman A. Wieringa of Edmonton and Rasmus A. Sorenson of Wetaskiwin, Alta. Mr. Grijzen suffered severe hip injuries and shock.

The Grijzen family had recently arrived in Edmonton from Holland.

In British Columbia eight persons died over the long holiday stretching from Dominion Day to Sunday midnight.

Dead are: Ralph Rousseau, elementary school principal at Alberni, killed Saturday in a mountain-climbing accident. (See main story.)

Johann Halldorson, 24, Vancouver, died Sunday following two-car collision in Vancouver Saturday.

John Kadin, 61, burned to death at Burnaby Sunday.

George Reno, 56-year-old logger, hit and killed by truck at Prince George Saturday when he tried to avoid a car approaching from the opposite direction.

Barry Beckers, four, whose body was found in slough near his farm home at Agassiz Saturday following a two-day search.

Mrs. Margaret Hawkins, 68, Vancouver, killed in Vancouver traffic accident Dominion Day. Flying Officer Norman Mont, Sea Island base, Vancouver, drowned while fishing near Mission Thursday.

Louis Pessier, 43, burned to death in tragic Dominion Day accident at Merritt when his parade costume caught fire on a float.

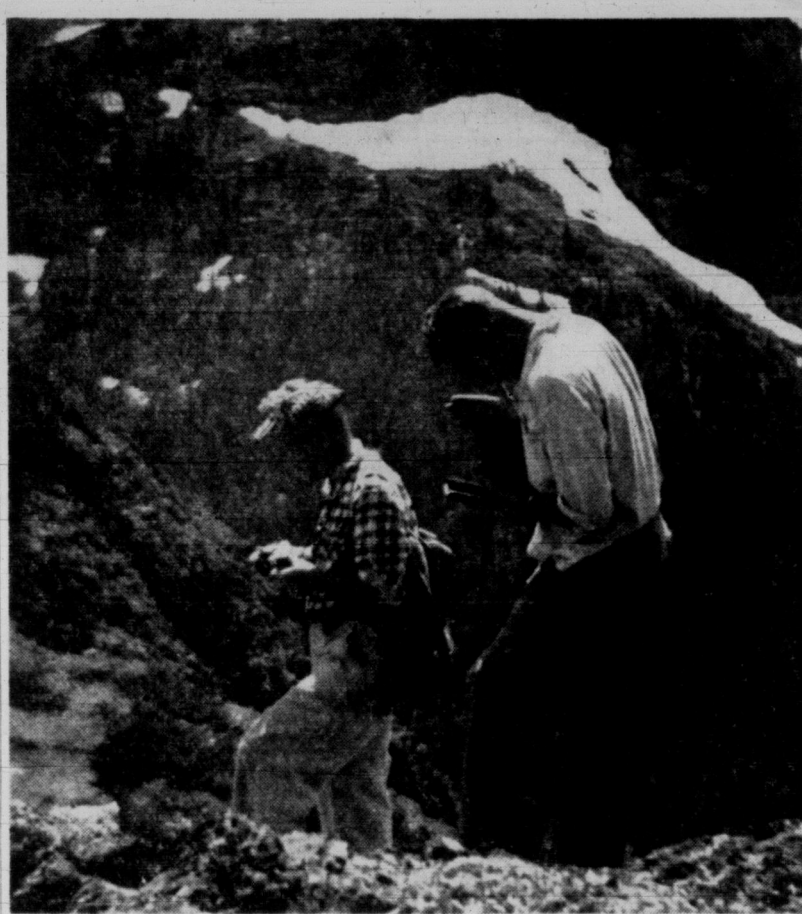

BY UNITED PRESS

United States motorists, alerted to safe and sane driving, cut Independence Day holiday fatalities sharply today and safety experts were hopeful the week-end total would be as much as 100 deaths below pre-holiday estimates.

A United Press survey showed that 406 persons had been killed in all types of accidents since 6 p.m. Friday.

DISASTER OVERTAKES ISLAND CLIMBERS

Alberni Schoolmaster Killed on Ice Ridge

Dead Man Was Noted Climber

Rousseau's Mountain Lore Guided Lost Times Newsmen to Safety

BY HUMPHRY DAVY

Ralph Rousseau was a man who loved mountains.

His life was taken by one of the unpredictable and ruthless forces which stalk the lonely, snow-covered peaks of Vancouver Island.

I first met Rousseau two summers ago while climbing Mount Arrowsmith with David Stock, Times reporter; Graham Harris, now of Vancouver, and Ulf Bitterlich of Alberni, who was a member of Saturday's ill-fated expedition.

He was alone building a cabin hewn from trees from the mountain slope. The cabin was situated not far from the timberline and overlooked the Alberni Valley.

Rousseau deeply impressed me. Somehow he seemed to fit in the landscape. He was part of it.

As an alpinist, he ranked among the best in Canada. We watched him climb along a narrow ledge on the side of a 2,000-foot precipice. The ledge was not more than four inches wide. Yet he walked along it with a sureness of a mountain goat. He climbed swiftly, with determination and without fear.

Rousseau did not climb for self-exultation and he did not belong to the cult of danger.

Rousseau, though a school teacher, disliked the "passive man." He believed it was the duty of men to create, to be active in the field he was best suited for. His field was mountain climbing and he developed it into an art.

On the day we climbed Mount Arrowsmith, David Stock lost his way while returning to Rousseau's cabin. The

Helicopter Airlifts Women From Mountain

By DAVE STOCK

Ralph H. Rousseau, 45, principal of Gill Elementary School at Alberni, fell to his death Saturday when an ice ridge he was climbing in the hinterlands of Vancouver Island suddenly crumbled.

He died instantly.

A helicopter from Vancouver was bringing the body out of the rough, mountainous area today.

Rousseau, a skilled and experienced climber, was on the return leg of a trip into Margaret Lake.

A small body of water about halfway between the northern tip of Great Central Lake and the southern end of Buttle Lake.

He was accompanied by three others, his wife, Lillian, Miss Alma Currie and Ulf Bitterlich. (Friday) and we camped there that night.

The ice fall, Mrs. Rousseau was thrown clear. Bitterlich, who was leading, was on safe ground when the break occurred.

The two women were flown out by helicopter Sunday evening. Miss Currie was being treated for possible cracked ribs and bruises.

Mrs. Rousseau was treated for shock but allowed to go home.

"I don't actually know what happened," she told the Times today. "We had been to the lake. We had got in the day before (Friday) and we camped there that night."

Big Block of Ice Gave Way

The party planned on returning by way of Drinkwater Valley. Drinkwater Creek flows through this valley, joining Della Lake with Great Central Lake.

To reach the valley, the Rousseau party had to cross Septimus Ridge. It was here disaster befell. The party had just resumed its hike, after stopping for lunch.

"We were just going to cross the ridge to the Della Lake side," Mrs. Rousseau recounted. "We picked what looked like the best route up. It was a place filled with snow.

"As we worked out way up, a big block of ice gave way with three of us on it. It slid 25 or 30 feet and just rolled over.

"I was catapulted onto the ice that was left."

Mr. Rousseau and Miss Currie were carried down by it and landed in a deep crevasse.

Bitterlich, using a rope, lowered himself into the hole. He found Rousseau dead, apparently from a broken neck, and Miss Currie beside him.

Hikes 10 Miles to Get Aid

"Ulf wouldn't let me go down," Mrs. Rousseau said. "I looked over the edge but I couldn't see the others. Ulf said to keep perfectly still because he was afraid other ice might give way."

Having rescued Miss Currie, Bitterlich found a safer place on the mountain ridge where the three spent the night. At daybreak he set off alone to bring help. After hiking 10 miles, he encountered another mountaineer. This man, not identified, carried the message for help to RCMP while Bitterlich returned to the women.

An aircraft spotted the trio Sunday morning and a helicopter of the Okanagan Air Services from the mainland took out the two women Sunday evening.

Bitterlich and a policeman remained in the area Sunday night in order to guide those flying in today to the body.

Mrs. Rousseau, heart-broken by the tragedy, found some comfort in knowing: "That's the way he would have wanted it. He loved the mountains so."

"It had been a happy day, and Ralph was so pleased," she recalled.

Rousseau had planned on another climbing expedition next week-end to Elkhorn Mountain, a 7,200 peak in Strathcona Park.

ULF BITTERLICH, young German immigrant who accompanied Rousseau on ill-fated expedition and hiked out for help. An experienced mountaineer, Bitterlich trained in Austrian Alps.

Imminent Indo-China Battle Seen As French Forces End Retreats

FRENCH REDS AGREE ON WOUNDED PW SWAP

PARIS (Reuters)—French and Viet Minh rebel representatives agreed on an exchange of wounded and sick prisoners in today's truce talks at Trung Gia, the Indo-China "truce village," according to a joint communique issued tonight. The first exchange was fixed for July 14.

Soon as the Russians swept Henley, they got interested in water sports. Just announced that the Straits would be swum by their own gal, Frozia Chadovitch.

In the U.S. they been celebrating "the spirit o' '76." In Canada we're bowin' our heads in tribute to the same number of holiday dead.

Defense Minister Ralph Campney sez he's going to reduce the arms budget. Could that be a cut in the cost o' livin'?

HANOI (UP)—French Forces retreating from the abandoned bastion of Phu Ly in the Red River delta halted their withdrawal today and prepared to defend a line running 15 to 20 miles south of Hanoi.

Military sources said an imminent battle was shaping up at Thinh Due Cau, 21 miles south of Hanoi, between the French union forces and the vanguard of three onrushing Communist divisions.

The same sources said a new defense line to protect Hanoi and the road and rail lifeline to the port of Haiphong would be established in a sweeping semicircle. The manoeuvre would flatten the French-held sector of the delta into a cigar-shaped area extending 80 miles from Son Tay in the west through Hanoi to the sea.

Communist Viet Minh pressure already was increasing on the north flank of the defense perimeter. Violent clashes between French union and Communist patrols were reported at Bao Ninh, 15 miles northwest of the capital.

Parade of Champions

Colwood and Uplands golf clubs were "knee-deep" in top-flight golfers today as the 51st annual Pacific Northwest Golf Association championships opened with qualifying rounds at both clubs. Among the classy shot-makers contesting the qualifying list at Colwood were, left to right, Victoria's own Bob

Fleming, who recently competed in the British Open and was the last surviving among the Canadian contingent; Ery Parent of Inglewood, Washington State champion, and Bruce Cudd of Portland, PNGA runner-up last year. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Rosseau's Mountain Lore Guided Lost Times Newsman to Safety

BY HUMPHRY DAVY
Ralph Rosseau was a man who loved mountains. His life was taken by one of the unpredictable and ruthless forces which stalk the lonely, snow-covered peaks of Vancouver Island.

I first met Rosseau two summers ago while climbing Mount Arrowsmith with David Stock, Times reporter; Graham Harris, now of Vancouver, and Ulf Bitterlich of Alberni, who was a member of Saturday's ill-fated expedition.

He was alone building a cabin hewn from trees from the mountain slope. The cabin was situated not far from the timberline and overlooked the Alberni Valley.

Rosseau deeply impressed me. Somehow he seemed to fit in the landscape. He was part of it.

As an alpinist, he ranked among the best in Canada. We watched him climb along a narrow ledge on the side of a 2,000-foot precipice. The ledge was not more than four inches wide. Yet he walked along it with a sureness of a mountain goat. He climbed swiftly, with determination and without fear.

Rosseau did not climb for self-exultation and he did not belong to the cult of danger.

Rosseau, though a school teacher, disliked the "passive man." He believed it was the duty of men to create, to be active in the field he was best suited for. His field was mountain climbing and he developed it into an art.

On the day we climbed Mount Arrowsmith, David Stock lost his way while returning to Rosseau's cabin. The newspaperman followed a wrong trail, descended a precipice and was stopped from proceeding by a marsh.

His friends wanted to organize a search party immediately, but Rosseau suggested waiting a while.

"Mount Arrowsmith is a big mountain," he said, "and it isn't everyone who can conduct a search safely on a mountain."

Rosseau said he would chop wood at his cabin to attract Stock's attention.

The sound of chopping wood, he explained, can be heard for miles on a mountain, and if Stock was safe he would follow the sound to the cabin. So for three hours the school teacher chopped. The newspaperman heard the sound and was able to find his way back to the cabin.

We left Rosseau that night on Mount Arrowsmith, his favorite mountain and his second home.

I remember him saying as we left: "I love this mountain and it will take me a lifetime to know it all. But if I do, I will know myself."

Flo's Training Speeds Swim Estimate Game

The game of calculating how long Florence Chadwick will take in the Bapo-Tinis swim to Port Angeles, or how long she will remain in the water, has taken on added zest since Miss Chadwick began her training last week.

Flo has spent periods up to an hour and a half in the cold waters of Cadboro Bay. Sunday she put in more than five hours doing an 11-mile swim in Prospect Lake to lengthen her endurance training.

These factors alone have demonstrated that whether or not she can make the full 18.3-mile grind to Port Angeles, she will certainly cover a good part of the distance, barring accidents. This has raised the sights of people entering the calculating contest. Estimates are running now to the seven and eight-hour marks, with, of course, many people who think
